SUN BATTLES SEAS TO RESCUE FREIGHTER'S CREW

YOUTH DROWNED IN INNER HARBOR HERE

Fishing Trip Ends In Tragedy When Skiff Overtakes

Fourteen-year-old Bobby Duncan, 45 Erie Street, Is Victim of Mishap When Skiff Overtaken; Victor Cooper Escapes by Clinging to Scow; Dragging Fails to Locate Body of Boy.

Swept under a scow when his skiff was overtaken by the wash from the Ss. Princess Elizabeth, Bobby Duncan, 45 Erie Street, fourteen years old, was drowned in the Inner Harbor yesterday morning.

Victor Cooper, 119 Superior Street, was rescued by tugboat men after clinging desperately to the braces of the scow as the rushing water sought to tear him away.

Dragging operations, started immediately after the tragedy, had failed to reveal the body of Duncan up to an early hour this afternoon. According to eye-witnesses, the boy was carried with his head underneath the scow's never came to the surface. Relatives of the lad assisted in dragging for this body.

FISHING IN HARBOR

The two boys were fishing beside a scow tied up at the old Turner Beech wharf when the steamer backed out at 10:30 o'clock from the C.P.R. dock on her way to the Outer Wharf for cargo.

When about 100 yards from the scow, the third mate, R. S. Doney and T. Foran, a deckhand, on watch in the stern of the Princess Elizabeth, heard screams for help.

Through the fog Doney saw the lad struggling in the wash under the scow. One managed to clutch a strut to the barge's rudder while the other, caught in the rushing water caused by the ship's thrashing screw, was forced under the scow with the small boat.

RUSHED TO AID BOYS
As they watched, powerless to aid, the third mate and deckhand saw four men from the tug Martha and Lorna Fox, moored at the wharf near the scow, rush to the assistance of the young lad. By the time they reached the lad who clung to the barge, the other boy had disappeared.

Despite the rushing water, young Cooper kept his head and shouted to the men to take their time as he could hang on.

Doney said he did not see the boy which the two lads were fishing. It must have been lying directly under the scow, he said. It was his opinion that the wash from the steamer captured the skiff and then carried it under the scow, leaving the two lads clinging to the barge. One evidently lost his hold and was swept after the skiff.

The steamer left the dock at 10:30 o'clock and would have been near the boys at 10:40, he stated, adding that fog was fairly thick at that time.

SAVED COOPER

Hearing the scream while they were in their galley about thirty yards away from the scow, W. Jenkins and B. C. Pierce, cooks on the Martha and Lorna Fox, two Seattle tugs, rushed on deck and raced to the assistance of young Cooper. Along with Al Wood and the chief engineer from the Martha Fox they threw a rope to Cooper, Duncan, who appeared to be clinging to the brace on the scow's rudder, lost his hold before they had a chance to renew assistance and was swept under.

The drowning of the lad was another visitation of the cruel fate which has dogged the Duncan family. His father, James Duncan, was drowned in the tug Hope disaster, five years ago. Jimmy, a brother, suffered the loss of his eye five years ago when he was struck by a moving car during a Halloween celebration. A sister, Betty, was nearly killed in an automobile accident about three years ago.

Young Duncan's stepfather, Paul Kell, the grandfather and one uncle are assisting in dragging for the body. Friends of the young lad said both could swim.

Duncan was a student in the seventh grade at South Park School.

STORM DELAYS FLIGHT OF DO-X

Altenuheim, Switzerland, Nov. 3.—The DO-X, giant German flying boat, which was scheduled to take off to-day for Amsterdam, en route by stages to New York, had its departure postponed for the second time because of a storm which raged over western Europe.

Yesterday's departure was dramatic. With the plane poised on the edge of Lake Constance, fueled, manned and its motors turning, a message with a telegram dashed up just as Commander Friedrich Christiansen was about to give the order to cast off. The telegram said the harbor over the English Channel had fallen twenty-seven millimetres in an hour, indicative of a severe storm.

Later reports told of ships being wildly buffeted by the gale.

WELL-KNOWN BROKERAGE FIRM CLOSES

R. P. Clark and Co. (Vancouver Says Measure Temporary One Till Survey Made

Every Effort Being Made to Protect Clients, Says Head of Company

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 3.—The stock brokerage firm of R. P. Clark and Company (Vancouver) Limited closed its doors temporarily to-day. A statement issued by the company at 10 a.m. said:

"Owing to circumstances brought about by the failure of Stobie, Furlong and Company, against whom we have a proved debt of a very large amount, we have considered it advisable to close our office temporarily for the purpose of preparing a financial statement to enable us to arrive at a decision as to the best course to pursue in the interests of our clients."

The firm carried on a large business in stocks and bonds, in addition to handling real estate.

STAFF BY PRESIDENT
Brig-General R. P. Clark, head of the company, stated the amount owing his company by Stobie, Furlong and Company was very large. No more cash was available from the reorganized Stobie, Furlong Company at the present time, and the five-year debentures to be issued to creditors were not of an immediately realizable nature, he said.

It was also stated the closing of the office was more or less a precautionary measure taken for the purpose of ascertaining the position in regard to assets and liabilities.

COMMISSIONERS AT DOMINIONS' CAPITALS SOON

London, Nov. 3.—Heads of the delegations to the Imperial Conference, continuing their deliberations at 10 Downing street to-day, reached provisional decisions of the greatest importance.

A wide extension of consultations between the governments of the Empire is projected, which eventually may result in Canada, for instance, having a representative in each of the other Dominions.

Empire Arbitration Tribunals Planned

Delegations to Imperial Conference Agree on New System to Decide Differences Between Governments of Empire

By George Hambledon, Canadian Press

London, Nov. 3.—A new Empire tribunal is to be established to arbitrate justiciable disputes between the Dominions. This, it is understood, was the decision of the heads of the delegations to the Imperial Conference, reached at a meeting at No. 10 Downing Street this forenoon.

Today's decision has to be ratified at a plenary session of the Imperial Conference, but that is large a formality.

The new appeal court will not replace appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London. Its jurisdiction will be limited to disputes between governments, whereas appeals to the Privy Council are largely on disputes between individuals.

ONE FOR EACH DISPUTE
The tribunal will be a non-permanent, special body created for each dispute and disappearing so soon as each dispute is settled. It will consist of five members appointed as follows:

1.—The first two members to be appointed, one by each party to the dispute, not necessarily persons holding judicial offices.

2.—The second two members to be appointed, one on each side, from persons who have held high judicial offices or are distinguished jurists.

COMMITTEE ON AIRWAYS WILL SEE MINISTER

To Seek Reversal of Order Refusing Flying Company Foreshore Rights

Matter Discussed at Commerce Chamber Directors' Meeting To-day

A committee of the Chamber of Commerce will be named to secure the co-operation of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to organize a delegation to call upon Hon. Alfred Durnaneau, Federal Minister of Marine, on his arrival in Victoria to-day, to secure a reversal of the order of his department refusing foreshore rights in Victoria harbor for the Pacific International Airways Ltd.

This action was decided upon at a meeting of directors of the Chamber this afternoon, when members of the aviation committee spoke on the refusal of the department to grant the desired foreshore rights and after Alderman W. T. Straith had pointed out that the refusal would mean that there would be no headquarters of the company here.

R. H. B. Ker intimated that the course taken by the Federal Department of Marine had been influenced by transportation companies.

Alderman W. T. Straith, speaking on the matter, stated that Victoria harbor was the only place the Department of Aviation would recommend as a site for an air base, and further, Mr. Straith said, there would be no headquarters of the company in Victoria if the foreshore rights were not secured, as that was the only place the company would consider.

PLANE JOINS SEARCH FOR BURKE PARTY

Flier Goes to Northern B.C. From Yukon; No Word Yet of Renahan Party

Unfavorable Weather Delays Plane in Leaving Seattle to Search For Renahan Plane

Vancouver, Nov. 3.—A second plane will join the search for Captain E. J. A. Burke, who with two companions disappeared with a plane while en route from Liard River Post to Atlin, October 11.

Pilot E. L. Wasson, of the Treadwell-Yukon Exploration Company, accompanied by Alex. Crose, Vancouver air engineer, is expected to reach Atlin to-day from Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, to assist Frank Dorbandt, United States pilot, who with a companion has been making flights over the Burke party's route for the last week without success.

Dorbandt flew to Whitehorse Sunday with Gold Commissioner Frank Wright to complete arrangements with D. Wernecke, manager of the company, for Wasson to join the search.

RENAHAN PARTY
Meanwhile no word has been received from Pilot Robin Renahan and his two companions, who left Vancouver October 28 en route to Atlin to join the Burke search.

Definite reports placed the Renahan plane as arriving at Rutledge Cannery some four hours after the start from Vancouver and from where it started on a hundred-mile flight to Prince Rupert.

Weather conditions were bad again to-day, preventing the take-off of Pilot Robin Renahan from Seattle on search for Renahan along the coast of British Columbia.

On the flight he started from Vancouver, Renahan was accompanied by Sam Clark, a prospector, and the Liard Post region, and Frank Hatcher, mechanic.

In the Burke party when it left Atlin were Emil Kading, air engineer of Vancouver, and Bob Martin, a prospector.

With Eckman, chief pilot of the Alaska-Washington Airways, on the search flight, are to go, Larry Parks, general agent of the company, and Frank Wadham, mechanic.

ARMISTICE PERIOD CAMPAIGN NOW IN ITS FINAL WEEK

Appeal Made to Aid Work of Relieving Veterans in Need

The universal call for help, "SOS," is broadcast by the Armistice Period-Red Cross Committee to-day. The campaign for $20,000 has entered on its last week and the committee is redoubling its efforts.

While it is not possible for more than a very small percentage of citizens to be personally canvassed, one who can subscribe to the fund is asked to send a contribution to the honorary treasurer, R. F. Taylor, 217 Belmont House, or leave it at headquarters, 629 Fort Street, corner of Broad Street.

$13,000 STILL NEEDED
Much spade-work has been done during the last three weeks and it is hoped results will be realized from that work during the next few days. Fifteen thousand dollars is needed to complete the required amount, and the campaign committee appeals to citizens to give promptly and generously so that the Armistice Period Committee can meet its obligations.

BRITISH COMMONS TO DEBATE DEPORTATIONS FROM CANADA

London, Nov. 3.—The question of deportation of alleged epileptic sufferers from Canada, three of whom are now back in England after long residence in the Dominion, will likely be raised in the House of Commons by Albert Law, Labor, who is senior member of Parliament for Bolton, Lancashire.

In a speech at Addington Saturday evening Mr. Law described the deportation of Miss Alice Barton and Mrs. Alice Answorth, former Bolton women, as a policy of "soulless economy." He said he intended to raise the matter in the House of Commons and to point out that the Canadian authorities were sending women to Bolton without first officially communicating with the Bolton authorities.

Mrs. Answorth has been back in Bolton for some time and is in an institution. Miss Barton has just arrived back at Bolton and is alleged by Bolton newspapers to be "broken in health and with a hopeless outlook for the future." Both the women came from Hamilton, Ont. A third case has been discovered at Bristol following agitation over two other cases. Mrs. J. Vowles is reported to be in a Bristol poor-law institution showing deportation from Canada.

MORE MP'S FOR LABOR ARE URGED

All-Canadian Congress of Labor Opens Its Annual Convention in Vancouver

A. R. Mosher, President, Gives Views on Position of International Unions

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 3.—United States Labor unions functioning in Canada have gone to the length of calling strikes rather than allow their members to work with Canadian unionists, A. R. Mosher charged in making his presidential address to the convention of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor here to-day.

Mr. Mosher further stated that paid leaders of those unions in Canada had worked to keep labor representatives out of Federal and Provincial parliaments, and said that increases in membership claimed by "foreign unions" were "purely fictitious."

Reviewing the general situation in Canada as it affected his organization, President Mosher said the economic depression had been reflected in the slowing up of organization.

Changes taking place in the regulation of industry in governments, continued Mr. Mosher, made it increasingly essential labor should be represented in the parliaments, both Federal and Provincial. He regretted the lack of political consciousness among Canadian workers and the influence which he said was exerted over labor in the Dominion by "American labor philosophy."

FIVE-DAY WEEK
Dealing with displacement of labor by increased use of machinery, Mr. Mosher said it was obvious the only remedy for such a condition was the sharing of work among all the able-bodied adults of the nation and the consequent provision of purchasing power to consume the goods produced.

He advocated an eight-hour day and a five-day week.

The effect of tariff increases on the welfare of workers was doubtful, Mr. Mosher said.

"Tariffs," he added, "rarely have led to improvements in wages or working conditions, but they have invariably led to bigger profits for the manufacturers."

A civic luncheon was tendered the convention delegates at noon.

Word Awaited From Ss. California, of Portland, Ore., Which Battled Way to Spot Where Seiyo Maru Drifting Helplessly in Gale Southwest of Aleutian Islands; Cargo of Seiyo Shifts and Ship Loses Rudder.

Although the steamship California had the stricken ship's position and at last reports was battling rough weather in an attempt to reach the scene and rescue the forty men aboard the disabled freighter, no word had been received here this afternoon.

The California's captain radioed last night that he expected his ship to be alongside the Seiyo Maru at 11 p.m. Pacific standard time.

First distress signals were sent out at 5 a.m. yesterday, when the Japanese vessel was at latitude 50.15 north and longitude 178.25 east, a position southwest of the Aleutian Islands. At that time, the messages indicated, the ship was helpless and listing.

CARGO SHIFTS
Subsequent messages throughout the day said the list had increased and further damage, including smashing of lifeboats, had been done by seas raised by the heavy weather. The freighter's cargo had shifted, giving the vessel a list of sixteen degrees.

The plight of the freighter, bound from Portland, Ore., to Yokohama, was first learned at San Francisco through radio messages from the Mutual Radio station from the Dollar Steamship President Grant, which picked up the distress calls. The Grant plies between the Orient and Victoria and Seattle.

The Seiyo Maru had no passengers booked when she left Portland. The ship is a steel vessel of 6,550 tons, built in 1913 at Glasgow. She is owned by the Mansei Kisen Kaisha and operated by the Yamashita Shipping Company.

GALE REPORTED
Captain Gregor Johnson, master of the steamship California, reported by radio to the home office of the State Steamship Company in Portland, Ore., yesterday that his vessel was holed in a fur gale and that he intended to proceed to the assistance of the Seiyo Maru as soon as the wind moderated.

At that time the California was at 50 degrees north latitude and 178 degrees east longitude, while the Seiyo Maru was at latitude 50.15 north and longitude 178.25 east.

RUDDER CARRIED AWAY
At 1:45 p.m. the Seiyo Maru wireless "Having lost her rudder, list, lost rudder and drifting helplessly."

Radio messages received by the Dollar Steamship Company radio station at Manse, Calif., indicated the rescue steamship California was having difficulty understanding the distress calls of the Japanese vessel. "I can't make you understand English," the radio operator aboard the Seiyo Maru told the California, the Dollar station reported.

A civic luncheon was tendered the convention delegates at noon.

Three Painfully Hurt in C.N.R. Derailment in Yard at Drummondville, Quebec

Seven Cars Leave Tracks; Locomotive Remains on Rails

Drummondville, Que. Nov. 3.—Slowing down before entering the railway yard here yesterday evening the Ocean Limited, east Canadian National Railway's express bound from Montreal to Halifax, was derailed about three quarters of a mile from the station, causing painful injuries to three passengers and minor hurts to a score of others.

The accident was believed due to a broken or sprung rail. The engine, tender and mail car remained on the track, while the seven other cars were derailed. None of them turned over. Drummondville is about ninety miles from Montreal.

109 CAUGHT IN RAIDS BY PARIS POLICE

Authorities Are Breaking Up Anti-Fascist Organizations

Paris, Nov. 3.—One hundred and nine Italians were caught yesterday in a police dragnet thrown over five wards of this city in an effort to break up an Italian anti-Fascist organization. Fifty-four of the prisoners were later released.

The police raided lodging houses and cheap hotels, demanding the identification papers of more than 1,000 individuals. Many were found already facing decrees of expulsion. Others had criminal records and will be expelled to Italy.

The public regarded the raids as the start of a great police drive against the anti-Fascists, of whom Paris activities of the Mussolini government has been complaining for years. The attempted killing of Luis Cartil last Wednesday by anti-Fascists who considered him a renegade, was considered the immediate occasion of the police action.

The authorities said they had found a proof of a vast militant anti-Fascist organization in the city.

OKLAHOMA'S BIG OIL GUSHER IS CAPPED

Authorities Are Breaking Up Anti-Fascist Organizations

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 3.—Here map and his machine and tools triumphed yesterday over the gigantic force of a wild gusher which for three days had threatened this oil-bound city with potential disaster.

A great iron die-nipple connection late yesterday was anchored into place over the volcano-like casing of the rampant No. 1 C.E. Stout gusher of the Morgan Petroleum Company.

Master gates were closed and the well—only a mile from the centre of Oklahoma City's busiest district—was tamed.

But before the Stout well bowed to the will of the workers the last gesture of its fury emerged seven miles downstream in the oil-covered North Canadian River, on the south bank of which the gusher is located. Fire broke out in the stream and great clouds of black smoke could be seen for miles.

Only a small area burned.

Dominion Premiers See British Fleet In Action

Witness Manoeuvres Carried Out By Newest Defence Craft In English Channel

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

London, Nov. 3.—In mist and rain off Portland the Premiers of the Empire Saturday saw a mimic war at sea. Through a thick haze, fifteen-inch guns flashed and roared as they crashed their huge projectiles through a target lying low on the horizon. Airplanes soared from giant aircraft carriers and swooped around the Nelson, flagship of the Atlantic Fleet, which the Empire Premiers had put to sea.

A minelayer strewed the Nelson's path with dummy mines. A depth charge sent columns of water into the air. Waspish destroyers buzzed around, discharging torpedoes, but the doughty Nelson went on her way unscathed and from her conning tower the Premiers and their companion ministers took in every detail of the scene.

Among those who watched were Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Canadian Minister of Justice.

FLIERS RESCUED

The navy airmen had a difficult time of it. One plane fell into the channel. It sank, but the crew of three was rescued by a destroyer. In the boisterous weather two more crashed in landing.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who had planned to fly from Hendon, was advised not to make the attempt, and he missed the demonstration altogether.

As the mist grew heavy the Centurion, Britain's robot battleship, which performs evolutions under wireless control without a man on board, disappeared in the great blanket of black with the target she towed. The big guns of the Warspite, the Barbham and the Malaya flashed. Their roars went reverberating down the channel and over the distant hills of Dorset. When the smoke and spray cleared the Centurion still towered her target, but it was a target in tatters.

MOST PERFECT ROBOT

The Centurion, the mystery battleship, is the most perfect robot known to science. Specially armed, she is directed entirely by wireless from an attendant destroyer. With nothing but a mascot cat aboard, the vessel moves about, stops, starts, steers, sends up smoke, screens, registers hits by flashing lights and does everything but fight.

As the Nelson turned her nose homeward she passed down a long line of battleships, their great grey forms grimly silhouetted against the background of a glorious sunset.

It was a day when Britain showed she is still a power on the sea.

JAPAN TROOPS DRIVE FORMOSA WARRIORS BACK

Canadian Press

Tokio, Nov. 3.—Press dispatches said Japanese troops had completely occupied the central Formosan village of Mahebo at 1:30 p.m. yesterday in their battle to subdue revolting Taiyi tribesmen.

Several hundred aboriginal warriors were seen retreating to nearby hills and valleys. After the occupation Mahebo was destroyed by fire.

An official report to the Ministry of Overseas Affairs said the Japanese expedition against the savages increased Japanese casualties resulted in an order for five hundred steel helmets to be sent to the front from Taihoku, Formosa sea-coast town.

Dispatches said the capture of Mahebo found the body of one savage ringleader, formerly employed by the Japanese as a policeman, who apparently had committed suicide. This man was supposedly the only rebel able to operate a machine gun, though the savages were reported to have two.

The capture of Mahebo was regarded as an important victory by Japanese authorities. The village was a natural fortress, virtually surrounded by precipitous cliffs and deep gorges spanned only by suspension bridges, which the aborigines destroyed.

THREE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN ONTARIO

Pilot and Two Young Women Victims of Stunt Accident Near Toronto

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Stunting, it is believed, to give two girl passengers a flying thrill, Harry E. Taggart, twenty-four-year-old air mail pilot from Tottenham, Ontario, killed himself and Misses Jean and Kathleen McColl of Toronto when his plane crashed and burned late yesterday on a farm three miles north of the city limits.

According to eye-witnesses, Taggart, after having done a number of barrel-rolls over the field of the Toronto Air-drome Limited, failed to come out of a sidslip 300 feet from the ground. In a moment the large three-passenger Pitcairn biplane had become the general pyre of its three occupants.

The two girls, Jean, twenty-two-year-old Scarboro Township school teacher, and Kathleen, twenty-year-old stenographer, were sitting together in the front seat. The body of Taggart was found sitting erect in the burned plane. All three bodies were horribly burned.

Colonel Joy will preside at the official inquiry into the crash.

Taggart for some time had flown the air mail for the Colonial Airways Ltd. between Toronto and Buffalo.

LABOR LOSSES HEAVY AT POLLS IN ENGLAND

London, Nov. 3.—Final returns from the municipal elections in about eighty of the largest cities and towns in England and Wales show the Labor Party lost at least twenty-seven in the voting on Saturday.

The Conservatives gained 79 and lost 10, while the Liberals gained 9 and lost 17. The Independents gained 24 and lost 20.

While municipal and Parliamentary politics in Great Britain proceeded on greatly different lines and experts disagree as to what extent municipal elections can be considered representative of national political feeling, it was generally agreed the results were remarkable. They were also unexpected in view of the fact that in the last municipal elections Labor gained 112 seats and lost only 12.

CONVICTS FAIL TO ESCAPE AND ONE LOSES LIFE

Oswining, N.Y., Nov. 3.—Harry Gordon, convict, who died Saturday night in an unsuccessful attempt to escape from Sing Sing prison, contributed to his own death when he saw the plans of himself and his three accomplices were thwarted. Medical Examiner reported. Dr. Squires said Gordon, a Bronx robber, was shot into his own head after he had been wounded by guards in the prison yard. Powder burns on the head and the size of the bullet hole led to the medical examiner's belief.

To-day three prisoners were in solitary confinement and prison authorities were conducting their investigation of the four to shoot their way out of prison.

BIRTH CONTROL GROWS IN BRITAIN

London, Nov. 3.—Decline in the increase in population of Great Britain to a point where it is nearly stationary is ascribed in the annual report of George Newman, chief medical officer, to the increasing practice of birth control.

Sir George says there is "weighty authority for saying birth control is in principle not universally or absolutely either good or bad in itself."

His report shows that in 1929 there was a "further decrease in the birth-rate and a substantial increase in the death-rate, so the natural increase in the population was reduced from five to 2.9 per 1,000.

The report also shows that in 1928 the birth-rate exceeded the death-rate by five per 1,000, which was less than half the figure for the years from 1921 to 1925.

DEBT REVISION

Istanbul, Nov. 3.—Turkey has made a flat statement of inability to pay her creditors under the Ottoman debt settlement and demanded revision of the Paris accord of 1928. Under the Paris accord she agreed to pay $429,000,000 in twenty-seven annuities.

ROPE FOUND

One hundred keepers searched 2,230 convicts and their cells in an attempt to determine whether any others had guns. They found none, but in a cell-block they discovered a hook and loop rope similar to those the four men used in an effort to scale the wall.

Relative claimed the body of Gordon, who took part with his three accomplices in the pitched battle with armed guards in the huge prison yard while sirens shrieked and flood lights glared.

Herbert Davi, serving five years for grand larceny in the Bronx, was recovered from a slight scalp wound received in the battle. Edward Ryan, serving a long term for assault and gun-carrying, showed no ill effects from the fight with the guards, nor did William Lepore, convicted robber, from Manhattan, although they were captured only after tear gas had been used.

SIR E. CECIL BETHUNE DIES IN LONDON

London, Nov. 3.—Lieut-General Sir Edward Cecil Bethune, who was one of the foremost soldiers of the Empire, died here yesterday at the age of seventy-five.

In the Boer war he raised and commanded the 1st Buffs, a cavalry regiment that rendered conspicuous service. He was appointed brigadier-general in 1905, major-general in 1908 and lieutenant-general in 1913. In 1914 he was promoted to full general and was director-general of the Territorial Force.

SLEEPING WOMAN IS MURDERED

Los Angeles, Nov. 3.—While her eighteen-month-old child slept at her side, an assassin early yesterday shot to death Mrs. Marie Ellis, twenty-two, using a shotgun. The weapon was found at the foot of the bed.

The body of the mother was discovered by Mrs. Henry Cannon, sister of the dead woman, attracted to the room by the cries of the baby. Mrs. Ellis had been living with her sister since she was granted an interlocutory divorce decree from her husband.

Police later arrested John Ellis, the brother, Alfred.

THE TRANSFERRED MINISTERS

IN A TRIBUTE TO THE HON. N. S. Loughheed, former Minister of Public Works, a Conservative contemporary leaves the implication that this minister was transferred to the Department of Lands on account of criticism by political opponents.

The plain fact is that both Mr. Loughheed and Mr. Shelly were transferred from their departments on account of criticism from within the government's own party. Premiers as a rule do not transfer or retire ministers because they are criticized by their political opponents. If they did they would be making changes all the time.

Nor is the adverse tide of public sentiment likely to be checked by the departmental changes which have been made. The policies those ministers directed were the policies of the government as a whole and the government can not absolve itself of responsibility for them merely by putting them in other positions in the ministry.

Nor is the public likely to be favorably impressed by the appointment of Mr. Burden to the post of Agent-General in London. Everybody knows that however conscientiously he may try to render a good account of himself in his new sphere, he is handicapped by his lack of knowledge of many things with which an Agent-General ought to be conversant before his appointment.

There is no sense in maintaining representatives in London who can not make themselves reasonably prominent by their own special qualifications. Certainly there is no sense in keeping this office at all if it is to be used as a convenience for cabinet reorganization in Victoria, without regard to the best interests of the province in its representation in London.

WHAT ABOUT OUR LIVESTOCK?

AT A TIME WHEN THE PRICES FOR grain and other farm products have been declining rapidly, livestock prices have shown outstanding strength. At present relative prices it appears to be decidedly more profitable for the farmer to export his grain in the form of cattle, cheese and bacon than to attempt to sell it in a world market burdened with surplus supplies from many countries.

Recently, shipments of live cattle from Canada to Great Britain have been resumed after a lapse of three years. This trade was at one time an important outlet for the Canadian livestock industry. Increasing demand and higher prices in the markets of the United States diverted these exports, and shipments overseas ceased. The initial shipments of the last few weeks have been cattle from eastern Canada, but a trial shipment of western cattle is about to be made from Montreal, and there is a sound basis for the hope that western cattle can be finished for this trade at a profit.

Perhaps the outstanding opportunity in livestock at the present moment is in the market for pork and bacon. The demand for bacon in Great Britain has grown at an amazing rate. In 1921 British imports of bacon amounted to 636,000,000 pounds. In each of the last three years the total imports into that market has been more than 900,000,000 pounds. This is an increase of fifty per cent, and most of the additional supplies have gone in from Denmark. Canadian shipments, however, are no greater to-day than they were forty years ago.

In 1924 the average price of Canadian bacon on the British market was equivalent to the price which prevailed last month in that market. In the same year Canadian exports amounted to 120,000,000 pounds. In 1924 the price of wheat was approximately seventy-five per cent higher than at present, and the price of barley, the most important grain for the bacon hog, was more than two and one-half times the price now prevailing. These facts seem to indicate that the possible margin of profit in hogs has improved decidedly.

British imports of dairy products also have been maintained, although the proportion secured from Canada is declining. Canadian exports of butter have practically disappeared and shipments of cheese are one-third less than they were five years ago. Canadian cheese long held first place in the British market and as late as 1926 received a substantial premium for its high quality.

The rapid decline in Canada's export trade in animal products has been partly due to the great increase in domestic requirements. This has been very great during the past few years—Canadian prosperity largely determining it—and production has not increased in keeping with the growing demand. Shipments overseas have been drastically cut, and in some instances, such as butter and lamb, large quantities have been shipped into Canada. Butter imports amounted to nearly 36,000,000 pounds in 1929, and imports of mutton and lamb to more than 4,000,000 pounds. Substantial quantities of beef and pork also were brought in.

Millions of bushels of low-grade wheat and coarse grains are produced in Canada each year. Mill offals, screenings and similar products are available in abundance. Under prevailing conditions it seems to be more profitable to market these commodities through the medium of livestock and animal products than by selling them as raw materials.

Animal husbandry is bringing the farmers of Canada a total revenue estimated at half a billion dollars each year. The home market itself offers opportunities for the expansion of Canadian production. The efforts of the British government through the Empire Marketing Board have created conditions favorable to the extension of Canadian exports in the British markets. The high standard of quality achieved by producers of Canadian bacon and cheese opportunities for the development of the industry and the extension of both the domestic and export markets for such products.

The assurance to importers of adequate and steady supplies with quality and price in keeping with similar products from other countries is necessary, however, if Canada is to regain her former position in the international field. Present conditions seem to be favorable for the expansion of this industry and for greater diversification in Canadian agriculture.

THE REAL DANGER

AT A FREE TRADE DEMONSTRATION at Torquay the other day, Sir Herbert Samuel, Mr. Lloyd George's first lieutenant, referred to the Canadian Prime Minister's offer to the Imperial Conference as a "very vague" proposal. He then went on:

Mr. Bennett wanted the British market for Canadian wheat, but in return he did not even offer to reduce the heavy duties on British manufactures which he himself had just imposed. The addition of three per cent to the Canadian tariff of thirty-three per cent against United States goods was not very attractive to Great Britain because the thirty-three per cent duty already had to be paid by British goods entering Canada. If we have tariff arrangements which preserve the British market for Canadian wheat in a time of scarcity, prices to our people may soar to excessive heights. I greatly regret that we should be drawn into debates of this character with the Prime Minister of one of the Dominions with the inevitable result of bringing economic bargains into the political sphere. It is the danger to imperial harmony and unity from these controversies which make many of us who have taken a keen and lifelong interest in the promotion of imperial development and unity regard the whole tendency as one fraught with grave peril.

By his "take-it-or-leave-it" attitude Mr. Bennett injected a note into the deliberations of the conference which produced an embarrassing situation. It will not do for his supporters in this country to blame what they choose to call Mr. Snowden's stubbornness. Not even a Conservative government headed by Mr. Baldwin would consent to food taxes. Nor is there any inconsistency about Mr. Snowden. His "stubbornness" at the reparations conference at The Hague last year was merely another example of his determination to see that the British taxpayer's burden shall not be increased. As Sir Herbert Samuel points out, however, the serious feature of bringing economic bargains into the political sphere is the danger to imperial harmony they may produce.

MUSICAL ATTRACTIONS AT CANADA'S NATIONAL EXHIBITION

IN YEARS GONE BY, THE CELEBRATED concert and military bands of both hemispheres have been engaged to entertain visitors to Canada's National Exhibition at Toronto. This year, there was an All-Canada Permanent Force Band, an organization of outstanding musicians drawn from Canadian permanent units, trained and conducted by Captain James O'Neil of the 22nd Regiment, now stationed at the Citadel, Quebec. Altogether thirty bands were heard in concerts throughout the entire exhibition, and another delightful surprise for music lovers was the Exhibition Chorus—2,000 voices, trained under the direction of Dr. Herbert A. Fricker, F.R.C.O. Four concerts were given in the Coliseum during the run of the exhibition, and at each of these some 10,000 listeners, apart from the choir of 2,000 performers, were present.

And for those in search of the spectacular, there were the daily features held in front of the grandstand. At the evening performance, the spectacle of "Les Voyageurs," staged in the character of the year and depicting the pioneer days of the North American Continent from the coming of Champlain up to the twentieth century, was given by 1,500 performers. Each evening the pageant terminated with a display of fireworks, presented on a scale never attempted at any other function of the kind.

Apart from the spectacular and commercial and sporting events, the exhibition has other missions. Each year special efforts are directed to education work in science, agriculture, livestock and domestic affairs. There are the baby shows, cat and dog shows, junior farmers judging competitions, the horse show, fashion and handicraft shows, and a midway or central promenade, comprising attractions of the entertainment world and amusement devices furnishing recreation for people of all ages and tastes.

Loose Ends

Human progress is stalled again—There are strawberries at Mount Newton—And the old car survives another attack.

By H. B. W.

JUST as I am beginning to believe that the human race may be progressing a little after all, something always happens to shake me into my original skepticism. This week, for example, I was willing to believe once more in human nature (George Pudgebury having decided not to sell his two Jersey calves to the butcher) when I read a report of the recent American House Congress. This congress heard from Professor Paul H. Nystrom, of Columbia University, who, in accordance with the practices of modern education, has been making investigations into some of the more important aspects of civilization. His investigations led him to announce that he had studied 800 smart women of the United States and found that fifteen per cent. used hair dyes; fifty to seventy-five per cent. used rouge; eighty per cent. have plucked and pencilled eyebrows; and an unstated number tint their fingernails. Next year, said the professor, smart women will use more lipstick (which seems to be a physical impossibility unless the territory of its application is extended), more hair dyes, less imitation sunken, and shorter fingernails.

THIS NEWS, of course, is nothing to wonder at, for we have learned to expect the worst in these matters and invariably have got it. It is Professor Nystrom's prediction about the other sex that I find so distressing, for he says: "I have made a study of beards, for instance. You'll notice in history books that George Washington's contemporaries (1732-99) were as clean shaven as the American businessman of to-day. Then came a period of heavy beards, followed by another clean-shaven period. Daniel Webster's time (1792-1852). The next bearded age lasted until around 1900. Men's mass taste changes much more slowly than women's, but it changes nevertheless. You sons will be wearing heavy beards."

WELL, there doesn't seem to be much one can do about it; but when a man thinks back to the time when he hid behind a tropical jungle of whisker he feels like taking his son out in the back yard and hitting him quietly over the head with an axe to save him from fulfilling Professor Nystrom's prophecy.

HERE, I think, is something for the Publicity Bureau to put in its next advertising folder. To-day some young friends of mine who grow strawberries out by Mount Newton, came to my house with two large boxes of rosy, luscious strawberries which had just ripened on their farm. They were not the so-called ever-bearing or late varieties which ripens in June and is shipped to less-blessed places like the prairies. It was a mystery why my young friends had brought these berries to me, luscious strawberries in late October, instead of keeping them for themselves. It was still more of a mystery how they had managed to ripen them at this season. Since the red apples came in October, I confess I have felt some disloyalty to the fruits of June, but on eating these amazing October products of Mount Newton I am ready to agree with that philosopher who said that doubtless God could have made something better than a strawberry, but that doubtless He had never done so.

I HAD PROCEEDED thus far in the cogitations of the day when the pure streams of my intellect was interrupted by the arrival of a young gentleman who wanted to sell me an automobile. This meant, of course, that there would be no more cogitations, no more flow of intellect, to-day. For a really capable seller of automobiles leaves you quite incapable of any mental process. He just paralyzes you and when you recover you find that you are in possession of a new car. Happily, however, it did not go quite so far in this case, for I am growing hard-boiled. True, I was weak enough long ago to tell this young fellow that some day or other I might be tempted to trade my ancient prospect so remote that I never bothered myself about it. The young seller of automobiles did not forget. His tribe never forgets anything. Many a time as I drove past him and one of his prospective victims on the road I saw him watching me out of the corner of his eye with the look of a vulture. And whenever I saw him my old car felt incredibly old and disreputable, until at length I would look the other way whenever he approached.

BUT HE CAUGHT me defenceless to-day. He caught me in the middle of this column and he stood me against my typewriter and fairly heaved a new car at me. And to think that such eloquence, such powers of persuasion and such mathematics should be wasted on the business of selling automobiles when it would ornament our governments, dazzle our courts and floor our greatest mathematicians! Why, before he was finished, this young gentleman had persuaded himself (and thought he had persuaded me) that the only way I could avert bankruptcy and ruin was to buy two of his new cars in place of my old one. He claimed to have saved many other people from ruin in the same way. What I could not understand was how business depression could long endure with so many energetic fellows of this sort about.

That I was falling, George Pudgebury

came along, as he does towards the end of every month, with a bill for divers fat chickens, butter and milk. This so depressed me that I allowed the seller of automobiles to depart without a sale and I guess, having lived to my old car, I am ruined. But then, I always liked that old car, somehow.

ENGLAND IS NOT BRITAIN

To the Editor:—Assuming you uphold the freedom of the press, I ask you kindly to explain the use of the bastard name Britain for England—as many people err in this respect.

England is not Britain, and Britain is not the official title of the political unity of England, Scotland and Ireland, which official title of Great Britain should be used only officially. It appears to have originated in the syndicated press, the chiefs of each group which (highly properly) are not English, and other papers have, like, followed the example—as in other irritating innovations.

TO VOTE FOR LIBERALS IS P.G.E. VOTE

Bridgman, N. Vancouver Candidate, Shows Weakness of Tolmie Supporters' Position

North Vancouver, Nov. 3.—Denouncing Premier Tolmie's intimation he would be prepared to deal only with a Conservative member from North Vancouver, Alderman E. H. Bridgman, Liberal candidate in the by-election set for next Wednesday, at a crowded meeting in the K. of P. Hall Saturday evening pointed out he could render greater assistance to the North Shore in the matter of getting the P.G.E. Railway completed than could his Conservative opponent, Alderman Jack Louiet.

"Dr. Tolmie asks how can I help you," said the candidate. "I will tell you. You know that if the government brings in any measure to complete the P.G.E. into North Vancouver I will support it and vote for it. But you have Alderman Louet's own word for it he would support Premier Tolmie whether he should take care of our rightful interests in the P.G.E. or not."

MADE SAME REQUEST
Mr. Bridgman also took issue with the government's attitude that the North Shore Liberal Association was merely sparring for political advantage in the by-election by demanding a pledge the P.G.E. would be completed. He quoted resolutions unanimously passed by the city council and board of trade making exactly similar demands.

"Does Premier Tolmie accuse your public bodies of sparring for political advantage?" he asked. They made the same request as the Liberal Association."

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, M.P., and Chris McRae, former M.P.P., also addressed the meeting and all were given a cordial reception.

OLD CONTRACT
Capt. Mackenzie pointed out that if the government should complete the P.G.E. it would be in position to demand from the Canadian National Railway fulfillment of the contract made by the old Grand Trunk Pacific to route its Vancouver traffic over the P.G.E.

"That contract is still perfectly good," he declared. "The C.N.R. is bound to fulfill the obligations of the Grand Trunk."

DEBT INCREASE
Capt. Mackenzie also looked into the Tolmie government's financial record. While Hon. J. W. Jones had admitted an increase in the debt to the enormous amount of $13,000,000 in two years, Capt. Mackenzie said that was hardly half the truth as it would be found the actual increase was nearer $30,000,000. He quoted figures in support of his contention.

The government had claimed the tax increase was the gasoline tax, but the speaker referred to chauffeurs' license, the school tax on certain lands, and the depriving of the municipalities of liquor and motor license revenues as other increases. In the last case the municipalities were put in the position of having to make the increase, but the reason was the government had deprived them of revenues. The loss to the three North Shore municipalities was $25,000 this year, he said.

Offshore steamship lines have been subjected to lean lumber offerings during recent weeks and have been very aggressive in angling for business.

United Kingdom rates have dropped from 47-6 to 40 shillings during the last thirty to forty days with plenty of space available at the inside figure. Japanese space was offering yesterday at 84 and 85.

Coastal, Gulf and intercoastal waterborne lumber rates are steady at conference rates, $4.50 to $5.12 to the Gulf and $10 to the North Atlantic. There is no little speculation, however, as to the future function of organized lines to establish and maintain rates.

Considerable lumber has move by water to the North Atlantic and back loaded to points as far west as Ohio. It is asserted here, which should place rate regulation in the hands of a federal rate-fixing body, similar to the westbound joint to the Gulf.

The effect marketwise of the newly announced open rates to the Far East will undoubtedly be to declare an "open season" against private charters, the object of which will be to make it difficult for tramp bottoms to operate. There is plenty of tide tonnage, most of which would be only too glad to get in operation.

MISSIONARIES REGAIN FREEDOM
Hankow, China, Nov. 3.—Communists who captured Nanchowling, northern Hunan province, October 28, were reported to have evacuated that city yesterday, permitting two unidentified United States missionaries, one man and one woman, to escape to Yochow.

GREAT JEWISH PROTEST HEARD IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 3.—Twenty-five thousand persons filled Madison Square Garden yesterday evening to protest against the British statement of policy in Palestine. Other thousands stormed the doors in an attempt to gain admittance. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Zionist Organization of America and other Jewish bodies to protest against the report of Lord Passfield, British Secretary for the Colonies. Calling the new policy a "cruel betrayal of the International trust undertaken by the British Government," Felix M. Warburg, well-known banker, said it "bristled with uncalculated criticism" of the Jewish people and did not provide for the welfare of the masses.

TORONTO JEWS PROTEST
Toronto, Nov. 3.—More than 3,000 members of the Jewish community here packed Massey Hall Saturday night at a mass meeting to protest against the British Government's recently adopted policy in Palestine. Samuel Factor, only Liberal M.P. from Toronto, said the British policy would have an echo in form of a protest in the next session of the Canadian Parliament.

Touring New Zealand Cricketers May Play In City

Match Or Series May Be Arranged With Test Team

New Zealanders Would Like to Play Here Either En Route to England Or On Way Home; British Columbia Cricket Association Has Taken No Action As Yet; J. Fyfe-Smith Re-elected President of Provincial Organization.

Possibility of an exhibition match here by a New Zealand test cricket team, during its passage from the Antipodes to England, or on its return following the series there next year, was mentioned at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Cricket Association here Saturday evening. No definite statement was available on the matter this morning, but the New Zealand cricket body has communicated with the British Columbia association with a view to arranging the match or series. From the general remarks it is thought that the British Columbia association would look with favor upon such an exhibition. The secretary may be instructed to write to the association "down under" and get further information on the project.

NEW TEAMS MAKE DEBUT THIS EVENING

Two Senior "C" Men's, and One Senior "C" Women's Hoop Games at Centennial

Veteran Peden Team to Meet Fountains; West Road Play J.B.A.A. "Blues"

Three hoop games are scheduled at the Centennial United Church gymnasium to-night, with two senior "C" men's and one senior "C" women's fixture. The men's encounter will see the first appearance of three new teams, with West Road and J.B.A.A. "Blues" meeting in the opening game and Peden's opposing Fountains in the final game. In the women's encounter the Hudson's Bay women will seek their first win of the year, against the Empress Hotel Laundry five.

West Road have gathered together a well-balanced team for the "C" division and are expected to give the Blues quite a battle. In former years the Blues competed in "B" basketball, but this year decided to go down the ladder one step.

The women's game will bring together the two teams that have had the least experience of any in their division, but they are expected to put up a good exhibition.

Bob Whyte and his band of hoopers from Peden will have their hands full when they meet the fast-stepping Fountains. Peden's players, when in their prime, were considered the best in town.

Alan Lemarquand will start the first game at 7:30 o'clock.

The complete card follows:
7:30—Senior "C" men, West Road vs. J.B.A.A. Blues
8:30—Senior "C" women, Empress Hotel Laundry vs. Hudson's Bay
9:30—Senior "C" men, Peden vs. Fountains Service.

The value of the increased co-operation between the Victoria and Vancouver associations was stressed at the meeting by J. Fyfe-Smith, president of the B.C. body, during the meeting.

CRICKET WEEK DISCUSSED
The gathering discussed dates for the B.C. cricket week, hearing a recommendation that it be held in Vancouver next year. It also considered the Western Canada tournament, to be held here next summer, and the trip to the Okauchan.

Regarding cricket week, the body favored the holding of this series on the mainland and tentatively set the date for some time in June.

Mr. Fyfe-Smith was unanimously re-elected president of the provincial association while the Governor-General of Canada and the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia were again named patrons.

Colonel G. A. Phillips was elected vice-president, and George Wilkinson secretary-treasurer.

The need of British Columbia cricket week bringing out new teams was stressed by Mr. Fyfe-Smith in his speech of thanks to the association. It was exceptionally valuable in bringing to the front dark horses, and was of considerable worth in picking all-star teams for a body game.

Mr. Fyfe-Smith, who was elected president of the association, held the B.C. cricket week, he felt that the series would further add to the value of these matches, which brought virtually all good teams in the province together.

Since thanks for the co-operation had been received during his term of office, Mr. Fyfe-Smith, by Secretary-treasurer Radcliffe on the submission of his reports.

MAT MATCH IS A DRAW
Charlie Strack and Charlie Hansen Each Gain Fall in Saturday's Bout

Coming back in the eighth and final round to gain a fall with a heavy body slam, Charlie Hansen, Seattle heavy-weight wrestler, earned a draw in his bout with Charlie Strack, Oklahoman, in the main event of the card presented at the Tifficum gymnasium on Saturday night.

The first fall of the match came in the seventh round with Strack pinning Hansen's shoulders to the mat with a flying mare. In the sixth round Strack applied a number of headlocks and Hansen, still groggy at the start of the seventh, was an easy mark for Strack.

At the start of the eighth round Hansen was still in a bad way and Strack immediately applied several headlocks. Hansen broke loose and twice attempted to get the necessary hold for a body slam. Twice he failed but his third attempt was successful and Strack went crashing to the mat. Both men were just about out but Hansen was fortunate enough to be on top.

In the semi-windup Fred Mortensen, Bellingham, won two out of three falls from Bill Robbins, Everett. Mortensen won the first fall in the second round, Robbins evened matters in the fourth with the former gaining the deciding fall in the fifth round.

Two exhibition bouts rounded out the programme.

Fancy Pigeon Club Members Hold Their First Parlor Show

Members of the Victoria Fancy Pigeon Club held their first show in Lillie's Garage, Johnson Street, on Saturday night. The affair, the first of its kind ever held in this city, was voted a great success. The birds were judged by J. Greenhields, international judge, who gave the members much valuable information on show conditioning and general feeding (and breeding). All breeds of fancy pigeons were exhibited, several fine pairs of racing pigeons.

Coach Art Duncan

By JIMMY THOMPSON

NOT MANY KNOW IT BUT ART IS PROBABLY THE ONLY WAR ACE IN THE N.H.L.—THIS SEASON HE PILOTS THE TORONTO LEAFS KEEP AN EYE ON HIM

Very little doubt remains in the mind of Mr. Hockey Phan who follows the movements of Manager Connie Smythe as to who is the brain behind the leaflets camp, with the recent appointment of Art Duncan as coach of the team for the coming N.H.L. season. Art has proven that he is one of the most popular players that Toronto has had in many a day. Duncan is a product of the town of Sault Ste Marie where he learned the first inside tricks of the game with the collegiate teams. The first time, on record, that he jumped into the money class of the game was with the Vancouver team in the Pacific Coast League when the firm of Patrick and Patrick pretty well ran the game of pro hockey. The following year, 1916, he played for the 228th Battalion when they became the terror of the eastern hockey clubs. This success didn't last long for the battalion moved overseas and Art began chasing Hun aeroplanes around cloud banks. It wasn't long before Art took to this new sport and the first thing we know they are handing him a lot of decorated averts to wear on his coat. As soon as they called off the big row, Art retraced his steps back to Vancouver and from there he was sold with the entire team to the Chi-Hawks. This move proved only a short one. Later we find him as playing-manager of the Detroit Cougars, but Art apparently found the going with this crowd hard and at the end of the season he had his resignation made out. The deal that sent Bill Bridge to the Detroit team brought Art to Toronto. The two following years he got a real start on the game from the players' bench as sickness prevented him from getting into the game in a big way. Therefore, at the age of thirty-seven Art has seen a good bit of the hockey world and will no doubt prove a real asset to the club.

Roughriders Bury St. John's Hopes In Great Fashion

Western Canadian Rugby Champions Smother Manitoba Titleholders 23 to 0 in Opening Game of Play-downs; Will Now Meet Calgary Tigers, With Winner Opposing British Columbia Champions at Vancouver; Toronto Argonauts Unleash Surprising Strength to Turn Back Montreal Wheelers; Hamilton Hand Ottawa Fifth Straight Setback.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 3.—A better Regina football team than they had been given credit for being—perhaps as great a machine as Al Ritchie has ever coached—buried Winnipeg rugby hopes Saturday under a rhythmical tramping of cleated boots. With a few of the flourishes omitted, it was the same sort of funeral the Roughriders gave here a year ago for the same Winnipeg hopefuls—St. Johns.

Before the joyous huzzas of a large home crowd, it was a matter of only a very few minutes before the worthy henchmen of eloquent Al tore away the bearish veil that covered the saintly ones and brought into the open a squad of young men neither so fast nor well taught as themselves. It was as good as over once the Riders made this discovery and by the end of the first quarter, the score was 13 to 0.

At full time it was 23 to 0, the Saints had been ruthlessly outclassed and Regina had tramped to within two strides of its fifth straight prairie title. A Thanksgiving Day clash with Calgary Tigers, and if they win at the football city, a trade at the coast with British Columbia's champions, was all that remained for Roughriders to take to make them western champions again.

SMART ATTACK

"Amateurs" Give Montreal Maroons Terrific Struggle

Five Members of Last Year's Montreal A.A.A., Allan Cup Holders, and Several Windsor Players, Skate Rings Around Montreal N.H.L. Club But Lose Out 4 to 2 in Last Minute Drive; Outskate and Outcheck Heavy Maroon Squad; Several Youngsters Expected To Get Places; Detroit Falcons Beat Olympics 3 to 0; Herb Stuart is Holdout.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 3.—A near record crowd of more than 13,500 hockey enthusiasts saw a team made up of five members of last year's Montreal Amateur Association's Allan Cup holders and several players from Windsor of the International League, outplay Montreal Maroons for nearly three periods, only to be defeated 4 to 2, in a charity exhibition game here yesterday evening.

A last-minute drive by the Canadian sectional champions gave them three goals in three minutes to win the fastest and most exciting pre-season game ever seen in Montreal's forum. Outskating and outchecking the heavy Maroon squad, the "Amateurs" had all the best of it in the first two sessions. The Maroons defended poorly no barrier to the rookies' front line, who split it open almost at will.

The "kids" defence, on the other hand, stopped nearly every Maroon rush, and for the greater part of the game the regulars were forced to do their shooting from outside the line.

OUTPLAY REGULARS
The rookies showed that several of them will stay the season with the Maroons, making it necessary for several of the latter to be relegated to Windsor. The regular front line used by the Allan Cup holders last season—Huggins, flanked by the Roche Brothers, Earl and Desse, proved the most effective combination on the ice. They outplayed Stewart, Smith and Siebert.

Maroons hardly played up to last year's standard. They seemed either jaded from the hard week's grind of two practices a day, or not yet in condition.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 3.—Professional hockey, unpolished but aggressive and pleasing to the customers who prefer the bruising brand, was ushered back into Detroit yesterday evening before some 7,000 fans when the Detroit Falcons won a 3-0 decision over the Olympics in the first of a three-game pre-season city series.

The National League entry did not emerge victors without a hard struggle. The two rivals fought a close and at times a brutal battle, but the Falcons, with abandon! Honors in this respect were slightly in favor of Bernie Morris's band of youngsters.

STUART REFUSES TO START
Jack Adams, manager of the Falcons, had a brand new problem set up in front of him just before game time when Herb Stuart, slated to start at left wing, refused to don a uniform as a result of salary differences and "Dolly" Dolson finally was prevailed upon to take his place between the posts.

The former goal-tender of the Olympics is reported to have been offered a contract which called for an increase of $1,000 over that of last year. He rejected it and demanded another $1,000, according to Adams.

ALSATIANS LAUDED AS FINE DOGS

Animal First Bred in Germany in 1880—Much Maligned, Says South African Expert

Are Wonderful Sheep and Police Dogs; Did Valuable Work During Great War

Some interesting points about the characteristics and history of the Alsatian dog were brought out in the course of a vigorous defence of the breed by Captain John Gwatkins during a municipal prosecution at Potchesdroom, South Africa, recently. The Potchesdroom Town Council imposes a tax of $10 a year on this breed of dog, discriminating between it and others, and the point at issue was whether the council had the power, under the provincial enabling ordinance, to make this distinction between dogs.

The magistrate considered that the court was bound by a previous decision of the Supreme Court on a similar local case, and finding the accused person guilty of not having paid the license, fined him $20 ($10 for each year he had not paid).

Captain Gwatkins' evidence, however, was of great interest, in view of the popular belief that Alsatian dogs are mean, but to the world wide, that they are destructive and treacherous and generally undesirable as pets, especially in sheep areas—in which least connection Captain Gwatkins laughed at the resolutions emanating from farmers' associations in South Africa asking the government to impose restrictions on the importation and breeding of Alsatians because of the depredations among small stock.

He declared that Alsatians were no worse than any other large dogs, and that farmers should move in the direction of having all big dogs excluded from sheep districts.

IS AN AUTHORITY
Captain Gwatkins is an officer of the South African Field Artillery Permanent Force and enjoys a reputation as an authority on all dogs. He told the court that he had judged hundreds of dogs on the show bench and had often been bitten—but 2 ever by an Alsatian. He had a fine Alsatian with him in court and declared, in drawing a distinction between the real Alsatian and the dogs usually described as such in South Africa, that he ventured to suggest that the majority of persons present in the court had never seen a dog like his before.

In attempting to show the court that the much-maligned Alsatian dog was really a shepherd dog, Captain Gwatkins said that it was evolved by the Germans about 1880 by crossing the Thuringian and Wurttemberg sheep dogs, the Germans having the idea that no imported dog was any good. The breed was exported to France, still fulfilling its primary purpose of herding sheep, and became very popular. On the outbreak of the war in 1914, however, the French realized that the breed would lose its popularity because of the "Teutonic touch," and they therefore called it, by the French equivalent of Alsatian shepherd dog, "chien de berger."

After the war it was taken to England by British officers chiefly—but the English hesitated to give it the name of shepherd dog, because the English collie shepherd had fallen into disfavor owing to its alleged treacherous propensities.

The breed was imported into South-west Africa, and thence to the Union of South Africa, after the campaign there, but even at the beginning of the Great War it was inbred in South-west Africa, and the result was, said Captain Gwatkins, that many of the so-called Alsatians in South Africa today, as the result of further inbreeding, had become degenerate.

Captain Gwatkins would not admit, however, that the Alsatian was any worse than any other large dog because of its alleged predatory propensities, and he strongly denied a suggestion that it was descended from the wolf, except inasmuch as all dogs are cousins of the wolf. He said that (Concluded on Page 14)

Esquimalt In Fine Exhibition to Keep Undefeated Record

First Division Football Leaders Hand Victoria City 6 to 1 Setback; Dockers Hold First Place By One Point Margin Over Saanich Thistles and Jokers; Thistles Score 3 to 1 Victory Over Victoria Wests in Fast Match; Jokers Win By Default From Five C's.

Esquimalt are still the undefeated leaders in First Division football. On Saturday the Dockers gave their best exhibition this season to hand Victoria City a 6 to 1 defeat, their worst of the season, at the Central Park. By their victory Esquimalt are still in first place by one point margin over Saanich Thistles and the Jokers. The former won the only other match played Saturday by 3 to 1 from the Victoria West at Beacon Hill. The Jokers who were scheduled to oppose the Five C's gained two points by default.

The City, who up until Saturday had lost only one game, proved no match for the classy Esquimalt eleven. However, in the first ten minutes of play the City forced the play and gained the honor of scoring the first goal when Manson headed in a pretty centre by Clancy. From this stage on Esquimalt were complete masters of the situation and it was only a few minutes later when Wagland broke through to beat Abbott with a fast shot. Still on the offensive this same player made it 2 to 1 within five minutes.

With about fifteen minutes to go before half-time Esquimalt were continually on the offensive and John Watt put the Dockers three goals in the lead with a pair of counters.

Play in the second half was a little more even, although the City were unable to score any additional markers while Esquimalt eased the net for two. The first of these counters came from the boot of "Scotty" Stewart while Blake garnered the other when followed in to boot home a rebound from a shot by Wagland.

Armstrong refereed.

The teams follow:
Esquimalt—DeCosta, Nicol and Joe Watt, Hosmer, Dody and Mesher; Burnett, John Watt, Blake, Stewart and Wagland.

Victoria City—Abbott, Campbell and Margison; Barnwell, Banks and Bowman; Munro, Manson, Peppin, Smith and Glancy.

Saanich Thistles retained their position in the league standing by a hard fought victory over the Wests. Play in the first twenty minutes was exceptionally fast with both teams uncorking fine combination plays while the two goalies were called upon to turn aside a number of dangerous shots.

The opening goal of the match was the prettiest of the afternoon and gave the Wests the lead. Pat Mulcahy and Scotty Robinson, who handles the left wing duties for the green-shirted, passed the ball back and forth three times to beat the Saanich defence, with Mulcahy beating Bridges with a bullet drive from close range. The Thistles counter attacked which resulted in Burns tying the score after a general mix-up in the Wests' goal.

Armstrong refereed.

The teams follow:
Saanich—DeCosta, Nicol and Joe Watt, Hosmer, Dody and Mesher; Burnett, John Watt, Blake, Stewart and Wagland.

for accidental hands and Viggers made no mistake with the kick.

Play in the second half was inclined to be a little ragged, the fast pace set in the initial period telling on the players of both teams. Halfway through the half, Saanich went two goals in the lead with Viggers, beating Willoughby from a few feet out.

Dowds refereed.

The teams were as follows:
Saanich Thistles—Bridges; Armistead and Price; Williams, Joe Crowe and Jim Crowe; Viggers, Essler, Burns, Minnis and Williams.

Victoria West—Willoughby; Lloyd and White; Thompson, Williams and Stewart; Mulcahy, Robinson, P. Youson, D'Arcy and H. Youson.

COLLEGIANS WHITEWASH WANDERERS

PATTERSON SCORES

College remained in the Wanderers' ground. Twelve minutes from the first try, Bapty secured from the scrum and passed to Patterson. Patterson dimmed his way through to score the second try. McInnes converted.

The Wanderers staged an offensive play that carried them to the College twenty-five yard territory, but the students cleared.

Moyes secured from the kick and ran through to the twenty-yard line before he was stopped by Charlewood.

The Wanderers bucked back to centre, where Copeland took the ball and on a long line run, smashed through at the corner. The kick again failed.

Play swung from end to end with both teams working some good offensive plays.

GOES OVER AGAIN
Boorman made two spectacular plays, but was backed by Charlewood. On a third attempt the students' captain ran through, tricked Charlewood and passed to Mabee, who carried the ball across.

McInnes converted to score the last points of the half.

College started on the attack, but the Wanderers cleared with a twenty-five yard kick. A few minutes after the half started Patterson was taken from the field with an injured tendon in his knee.

The period was seven minutes old before College made their next try. Mabee ran through with Walton, but was forced out. From the line out the students took the ball and smashed over in the loose, Wilson holding the ball.

Boorman, playing a heady game throughout, ran through, but was stopped by Charlewood. The ball bounced from the Collegians' captain's hands off Charlewood's arm. Bapty and Moyes, following up, took the ball and carried it over, but were called back for a knock on.

RUNS THROUGH
Running straight from a twenty-yard scrum, on a pass from Robinson, Jimmy Moyes raced through the centre of the Wanderers' backfield to score twelve minutes after the first try of the half. Boorman converted.

Laundry gained ground for the Oak Bay side on the play following the kick, but was stopped by McInnes before he could reach the line. College played feet up and Don Stewart took a place kick. The half, however, went wide and College returned on the offensive.

Stan Williams broke away on a good line run, but was knocked down by McInnes, and the students resumed the attack. Three times they came within an ace of scoring before Moyes dummed through and dropped the ball. Robinson scooped up and smashed over for the final score. The kick went wide.

PUT UP GOOD GAME

Although outclassed by the Collegians, the Wanderers put up a hard fighting game and made play interesting for the crowd of spectators who saw the match.

Commander L. W. Murray refereed, and the teams lined up as follows:
Victoria College—McInnes, Copeland, Patterson, Boorman, Mabee, Bapty, Moyes, Robinson, Walton, Carey, Sprinkling, Selvers, Colgate and Crothall.

Oak Bay Wanderers—Charlewood, Grimshaw, Senhag, Lundie, Williams, McConnan, Stewart, Gann, Campbell, Ackland Sharp, Vaucher, Dickenson, Brake, Greenlake.

BAYS WIN

Showing the same fighting spirit which brought them within an ace of victory against College in their match of the previous week, the Bays chalked up an easy victory over the Canadian Scottish.

The militiamen showed far greater strength than they did against the Wanderers, but were no match for the aggressive oarsmen.

From the start the rowing club players dominated and were never seriously threatened.

Dunn, a fast forward for the blue shirts, scored signally with his end-to-end rushes and featured in several good plays which brought tries.

The teams lined up as follows:
J.B.A.A.—Anderson, Omand, Tobin, Parrott, Brown, Armstrong, Burgess, Stephen, George, Masdale, Omand, Dunn, Ford, Wray and Morris.

Canadian Scottish—Halls, McAllister, Parker, Todd, Stark, Quinn, Tisdall, Scanlon, Byrne, Christie, Dore, Lees, Derbyshire, Anderson and Hills. Spares, Outwaite and Tyne.

SENIOR PRACTICE

Although they fielded only ten men and were forced to borrow one from their opponents, who played with fourteen, Canadian Scottish seniors, city and provincial militia champions, scored a 14-9 victory over the Oak Bay Wanderers first team in the practice game at Oak Bay Park.

Bill Oliver opened the scoring on a three-quarter run near the beginning. The Wanderers evened the score. The militiamen shortly after went into the lead when Campbell Forbes raced across on a forward rush. Wanderers scored again to equalize. In the second half Oliver and Normington gained tries for the militiamen, while the Oak Bay fifteen was able to get only one more. Campbell Forbes converted one of the Scots' tries.

Yours is a Grave Responsibility!

Some day soon you will be called upon by a commercial traveller who is going to do his best to sell you some foreign-made goods.

To avoid generalizations, and to get down to a typical concrete case, let us suppose you are a grocer, and that the traveller wants to sell you some well advertised line of canned vegetables. Your stock of canned vegetables will soon need replenishing in any event; you have occasionally had customers enquire for that particular brand, so you would anticipate no difficulty in selling it; and the price quoted you is one that appears to offer you a satisfactory margin of profit. What are you going to do about it?

Before answering that question, just remember please that in succeeding days you will have many other commercial travellers call upon you, trying to sell you foreign-made pickles, foreign-made salad dressings, foreign-made biscuits, foreign-made cheese and a host of other imported products—some under brand names made familiar to your customers through advertising, and all at prices that give you a chance of increasing your margin of profit. So again I ask what are you going to do about it?

Admitting for the sake of argument that you enhance your reputation for enterprise if you are always able to supply your customers with any brand they choose to ask for, is it wise of your customers to be spending their money for foreign-made foods instead of Canadian-made foods? And if it isn't, is it wise of you to make it easy for them to do so?

With a few exceptions, nearly all Canadian-made foods originate on Canadian farms. The more your customers favour Canadian-made foods, the busier Canadian farmers will be producing the materials from which those foods are made. And the busier Canadian farmers are, the better it will be for all other classes, including of course your customers, whose prosperity rises and falls with the prosperity of the farmers.

"Quite so," you may say, "but I have to buy a lot of imported merchandise in any event. I have to buy oranges, and lemons, nuts and raisins, tea, coffee, cocoa, spices, and scores of other things. A little more or a little less is not going to make a particle of difference to Canada's prosperity one way or the other."

You may think it won't, but just let us look a little more closely at those items you have mentioned. Granted you have to stock oranges, lemons, nuts and raisins—all imported—in order to give your customers the service they demand of you, does it necessarily follow that just because the other articles are also of foreign origin, there is no room for intelligent discrimination in your purchasing of them?

In Canada's interest, is it not better for you to stock tea that has been blended and packaged in Canada, by Canadian labour with Canadian materials, than tea that has been blended and packaged in some other country? Isn't it better to stock coffee that has been roasted and ground in Canada, than coffee that comes into this country all ready prepared? And if, when stocking merchandise that is necessarily made out of foreign materials, it's better to stock brands that had been packaged or otherwise prepared in Canada, how much more important it is when stocking merchandise like canned vegetables, that could be made just as acceptably out of Canadian materials, always to give the preference to the brand that is produced in Canada throughout?

When a customer asks for an imported brand, that you know is no better than—perhaps not as good as—a Canadian brand of the same thing, at an equal or lower price, what are you going to do about it—enter into a friendly argument to show her the error of her way, or follow the course of least resistance by giving her what she wants?

Let us suppose that all your customers began buying foreign-made foods and that you, with no thought of the consequences, ceased stocking Canadian-made foods in order to cater to the changed demand. And let us further suppose that your competitor across the street began doing the same thing at the same time for the same reason, and that the movement spread to other towns and cities till it became general right across Canada. Wouldn't the food factories of this country soon have to close up? And with their closing, wouldn't our farming industries suffer a severe blow? And with our farmers in the doldrums wouldn't it be only a short time before your customers began to buy less, and to go in debt with you for what little they did buy?

So again I ask you what answer are you going to give that commercial traveller when he comes in to book your order for a line of imported canned vegetables? It's worth a lot of very careful thought, isn't it?

Very sincerely yours,

A. H. Stevens
Minister of Trade and Commerce.

executed himself developed into touch-downs, though one was on a fumble by Moberley. He sent "Red" Currie on dashing excursions around the ends and had Saul Bloomfield hoist longer kicks than any Winnipeg hooper could return.

The important question of stopping Eddie James, spearhead of the Saint attack, took some debating and figuring out. The "dynamite kid" was corralled before half time and seldom allowed to stray thereafter. Tommy Moberley, running mate of the ponderous plunger, was dropped in his tracks as he caught Regina punts. The mite master of broken field play never was allowed to get into a broken field.

REACH WESTERN FINALS
Another Saskatchewan team, Junior Hilltops from Saskatoon, were a little too smart for Calgary in their semifinal match. Hilltops, who surprised the rugby world when they downed Regina Pats and won the junior championship of Saskatchewan, triumphed over the Alberta champions 13 to 3.

in eastern Canada's three major rugby leagues on Saturday and new squads now hold some of the high places in the league standings while others had their championship aspirations knocked sky high.

In what was generally rated the headlines of the programme, Toronto Argonauts defeated Montreal A.A.A. 5 to 3. The triumph gave the winners a strangle-hold on second place and almost completely crushed the title return.

hopes of the winged wheelers. The latter arrived here with a clever tie to their credit which Hamilton Tigers, Dominion champions, earned the previous week. On the basis of this performance it was generally considered the Montrealers would win.

Gordon Perry's brilliant broken-field running and Wally Whitty's splendid kicking the first three quarters kept M.A.A.A. very much in the running. But when these commenced to tire the wily Argos coach, Buck McKenna, ordered Frank Turville, his kicking ace, to again take up the punting burden in the final spurt and the Wheelers could not halt the irresistible attack launched by the Argos.

Hamilton Tigers inflicted the fifth straight defeat on the youthful Ottawa Argos, but not before the Senators had thrown a scare into the Argos camp by holding the Bengals to a 2 to 1 count up to half time. A converted touch-down and a rouge assured the champions of victory in the second half, the final score being 10 to 2, but Ottawa's splendid showing was one of the day's high spots.

McGill University provided the highlight of the inter-collegiate race, by holding the leading undefeated University of Toronto aggregation to a seven-all tie. McGill had the ball on Varsity's thirty-five-yard line in the dying moments of the game but Bill Lovering's kick for the winning point fell a yard short of the Varsity goal line.

Queen's University moved closer to the leaders by defeating Western, 3 to 0. As was expected the superior punting of Howard Carter, stellar tri-color backfielder, brought victory to Queen's who did not appear to have any noticeable advantage over the Mustangs in any other department of the game.

Balmey Beach clinched the eastern group title of the O.R.P.U. senior series by beating Varsity Orphans, 22 to 4. The Beaches have won three straight and will meet the winner of the western section in the final here on Thanksgiving Day.

Sarnia Imperials convincing 25-to-1 triumph over Kitchener-Waterloo, a team that had beaten them just the week previous, was probably the feature development in the western loop. The victory kept Sarnia in the race but they are still two points behind the leader, Hamilton, who has a 10-0 record.

Sydney, N.S.W., Nov. 2.—An aviator here developed yesterday a rough but effective method of preventing serious injury to a passenger.

Pilot Dalsh, while flying over Sydney at an altitude of 500 feet, saw a woman attempting to jump out of the cockpit. Promptly letting loose of the controls, Dalsh landed a quick blow on the woman's chin, knocking her unconscious.

Taking the controls again, the pilot made a safe landing and lifted the woman out of his machine. By that time she had recovered consciousness. Her only injury was a bruised chin.

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE
Acidosis Signals Disturbance of
The Body's Control Over
Its Acid-Alkali Ratio
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Since the campaign of the California growers of oranges for the education of the public some years ago the word "acidosis" has meant something to the majority of people. Somehow the word "acid" has developed most unfavorable connotation in the human mind and the word "alkali" is little if at all understood by the average reader.

Acidosis is not a disease, but a disturbance of the relationship between the acids and alkalis in the human body. Both types of substance occur in human tissues. Acids and alkalis react to form salts. If a sufficient amount of acid is retained in the body to increase the hydrogen ion concentration of the body fluids beyond normal limits, the person has acidosis.

The human body is equipped with a remarkably efficient mechanism for regulating the relationship between acids and alkalis. The mechanism includes, first of all, the lungs, which rid the body of large amounts of acid in the form of carbon dioxide which is breathed out. The second part of the mechanism is the kidneys, which dispose of acid by excreting it in the fluids which pass out of the body.

When acidosis becomes severe, nervousness, headache, irritability, nausea, weakness and sleeplessness develop. The person seems short of breath and breathes with difficulty. At first he yawns and exhales, but later, pale and exhausted, sometimes there is a fruity odor to the breath, although this usually represents an advanced condition.

In some diseases, such as diabetes or Bright's disease, in very high fever with profuse diarrhea, and with difficulty in the elimination of carbon dioxide in the lungs, such as occurs in pneumonia and heart disease, acidosis may be so severe as to represent one of the main factors in the cause of death.

This salt content is called a buffer mixture, because it acts as a buffer between the upper and lower limitations of danger in relationship to the reaction of the blood.

Anyone with even a simple knowledge of machinery or mechanics will realize that the human system is constructed with factors of safety against most ordinary disturbances. However, conditions may arise in which the buffers are used up and reactions then occur which are unfavorable. In the presence of an insufficient amount of fluid or water, acidosis can develop, although such acidosis is very mild and is corrected because the human being corrects the lack of food or water which produces the acidosis.

SECURE

The imposing bulk of the new Head Office Building of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada typifies strength and security in two forms:

One—The impregnable foundations of the Company, reflected in over $600,000,000 of assets, in its enormous reserves and contingency funds, and in the sagacious administration of its affairs which led the Canadian Superintendent of Insurance, Mr. G. D. Finlayson, recently, to commend "the enormous financial strength of this company, the efficiency and integrity of its officers and staff, and its scrupulous observance of the law in the conduct of its business."

The other—The security and protection it affords to tens of thousands of women and children. To every right-thinking man, wife and children are his first thought; their happiness his first consideration; their security his first responsibility. In the Sun Life of Canada, he finds his first and his strongest ally.

DON'T PUT APPLESAUCE IN YOUR COAL-BIN

THERE'S one important thing to keep in mind when ordering your winter's fuel supply: "What coal will give me the greatest heat for the fewest dollars?"

Science has already answered the question for you, Island Coal yields more heat per dollar than any other. This is because you get more B.T.U.'s.

A "B.T.U." (British Thermal Unit) is the amount of heat necessary to increase the temperature of a pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit. So that the more B.T.U.'s there are in your coal bin, the warmer your house is going to be! It's quite easy to determine whether the heavier Comox... or the free-burning Nanaimo-Wellington... is the more suitable for your furnace. All you need do is to request that the Collieries Combustion Engineer be sent to inspect your heating installation. This service is free.

Another thing to remember is that Nanaimo-Wellington and Comox Coals are produced on Vancouver Island by British Columbia labor. When your money stays in B.C., you are improving conditions here. The dealers listed herewith are big employers of labor... they distribute the output of the industry, which gives employment to more than 6,000 workers. By securing the income of six thousand families a heavy blow can be struck at the "unemployment bogey" that menaces the province.

Put ISLAND COAL in your coal bin. Let's do our share to make British Columbia the "gold spot" of Canada.

NEWS IN BRIEF

An illustrated lecture on a toll automobile road via Seymour Narrows will be given to-night in the City Police Court this morning and is expected to attract a large audience.

The Welsh Young People will meet to-night in St. David's Hall. All young people are asked to be present. The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock, and a good attendance is expected.

Hun Din, Chinese, charged with vagrancy, pleaded guilty before Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning and was remanded for medical examination.

Sentence of one month was imposed to-day on Kenneth M. Angus who pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to a charge of obtaining a watch by false pretences.

Endorsement of the Army and Navy Veteran resolution, regarding the centralization of relief, was given by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon to-day.

A meeting of the Cedar Hill School Parent-Teacher Association will be held to-night at 8 o'clock in the school. The committee in charge has arranged an interesting programme and several reports will be considered.

All officers and men who commissioned the H.M.S.C. Rainbow or Niobe in 1910 who desire to attend the reunion dinner next Friday, are requested to attend a meeting which will be held at 7 o'clock to-night in the Naval Veterans' Club Rooms, corner of Broad and Johnson Streets.

The Court of Revision on Victoria's assessment roll for the year concluded its work at 3 o'clock this morning. A few cases were left to be disposed of after the previous sessions of the court, and after these had been concluded, the assessment roll was signed.

More than thirty members of the Scottish Rite Masons arrived here from the Mainland Saturday morning to attend a business session held at the Shrine Auditorium in the afternoon. A banquet at the Shrine Temple followed by a social evening rounded out the day's programme.

The Department of Immigration has under consideration the application of an agent from the United States to succeed E. E. Blackwood, who will soon retire, as agent for the Northern Pacific Railway in Victoria. Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were advised at a meeting this afternoon.

J. R. Kingham and C. P. Hill will represent the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the general joint meeting of the Mining Association of British Columbia and the British Columbia division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at Vancouver, November 19 to 21, directors of the Chamber decided this afternoon.

A reunion dinner for all officers and men who served on H.M.C.S. Rainbow or Niobe in 1910, will be held next Friday evening. All who wish to attend are requested to be present at a meeting to-night at 7 o'clock in the Naval Veterans' Club Rooms, corner of Broad and Johnson Streets.

Much valuable information is to be found in the annual report of the Sidney Experimental Station, which has just been published by Superintendent E. M. Strauss. The various subjects dealt with include animal husbandry, field husbandry, horticulture, cereals, forage crops, fertilizers, poultry and bees.

The H.T. Company 11th Divisional Train C.A.S.C. will parade to-morrow night at 8 o'clock for drill and lecture. The dress will be drill order. This company is being trained in mechanical transport work, and vacancies exist for young men interested in the work of this branch of the army. For information apply any person who is interested in the work of this company headquarters, the Armories.

No action toward reduction in Victoria of the price of gasoline will be taken at present by the Victoria District Automobile Dealers' Association, according to James Wood, president. A meeting held this morning at the Chamber of Commerce deferred consideration of the matter for another week, pending action by the wholesale distributing companies.

The public hearing on the city's zoning by-law amendments has been fixed for 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Several complaints against the regulation are under consideration, and headed by the Real Estate Board, a move will be made to have the whole measure annulled, it is understood.

After paying a brief visit to his constituency of Salmon Arm, Hon. Rolf W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, returned to the city yesterday, and registered at the Empress Hotel. He returned in time to preside at the opening of tenders this afternoon in connection with the erection of the steelwork of the Hagueltine bridge over the Bulkley River.

"Touring Europe to the Passion Play" will be the subtitle of a travelling lecture to be given by Dr. Clem Davies on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Orde Memorial Hall of the Church of Our Lord. At a recent lecture in the city many were disappointed in not being accommodated in the building and the intense interest still prevailing in this great dramatic religious event assures a large audience for the lecture on Friday evening.

The North Saanich Service Club will hold a meeting at the club headquarters, School's Cross Road, on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. An address will be given by Clem Davies, on a variety of subjects, including Empire economics, the United States grip on the film industry, Mussolini and his policies, and France's condition and her attitude to the world. Gordon McLeod and part of his company will entertain the audience, and the evening will be wound up with a dance.

The Oriental question in British Columbia was aired before the Business and Professional Women's Club at its luncheon to-day in an interesting address by D'Arcy Carey of the Maple Leaf Association. Miss Kate W. Stewart, the president, was in the chair, and the members prior to the opening of the luncheon stood in a silent vote of sympathy to Miss Carey in the recent death of her father. The president told of the sending of flowers and congratulations to Mrs. C. B. McNeill of Vancouver, formerly Miss Kate Ormiston, on the birth of a son, Mr. Morris, a new member, was welcomed. Announcement was made of a "pot luck" party to be held in the clubrooms on Tuesday evening, November 11, and of a home-cooking stall at Spencer's on Saturday, November 15, from 9 to 11 o'clock. The next business meeting will be held on November 17.

GYROS SHOWN COAST SCENES BY HARRISON

Colored Views of Territory South of Alberni Canal Shown at Luncheon

The scenic beauties of the West Coast of Vancouver Island, south of the Alberni Canal, were this afternoon presented to the Gyro Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel by C. L. Harrison, who expressed the opinion that the best location for a sea level national park would be found south of the Alberni Canal. He showed a magnificent collection of colored views of the coast line, and briefly explained the features of each picture.

Northward from Port San Juan the highway would follow the coast line and would be easy to construct. The two largest rivers, which had been stated to be costly to bridge, each being negotiable with wooden spans of 100 feet, Mr. Harrison said. Beaches of remarkable fine sand were numerous, some being very extensive. Views of beautiful waterfalls and timber, between Jordan River and Balford, were shown. Mr. Harrison pointed out the number of small rivers and creeks to be crossed by a West Coast highway, all being of interest to tourists.

North of San Juan the trout fishing was an important attraction and many large tidal blow-holes provide points of interest. Mr. Harrison stated that location of a national park south of the Alberni Canal would have many advantages over selection of territory farther north. He said that road construction would be easier, as access to Long Beach would have to be over a large area of muskeg.

Beaches and points of interest south of the canal were almost entirely in the possession of the Provincial or Dominion Governments, while the accessible coastline north of the canal was in the control of powerful private interests. He believed the attractions of Long Beach had been greatly overstated and the stretch of hard sand was much smaller than the public had been led to believe, being rivalled by at least one similar sandy beach south of the canal which would be made accessible if the national park were located in the southern territory.

Mr. Harrison closed by remarking that tourist visitors to Victoria now hasten northward over the Malahat, while provision of a circuit tour would prove of great advantage to Vancouver Island by prolonging the stay of visitors.

President Frank Burton warmly thanked Mr. Harrison for his address, which terminated amid prolonged applause from the unusually large attendance.

GET A VOTE
G. A. A. Hebdon announced that the Gyro "Get a Vote" campaign had concluded last week. A larger civic turnout than last year had been attained and he believed the club's efforts had been a factor in the increase.

President Burton announced that no luncheon will be held by the club next week because of Thanksgiving. S. Chiverrall read a letter from the North Saanich Service Club, giving particulars of an essay competition for school children, sponsored by the service club, to be subject to "The Bonds of Empire."

LATIN-AMERICA INVITES TRADE FROM CANADA

Victoria Chamber of Commerce Delegates Discusses Trade Mission

Believing that in Latin-America there exist wide and sound opportunities for Canadian goods, and particularly manufactured articles, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is making a strenuous effort to organize a representative delegation for the trade mission to the Latin-American countries in the early spring of next year.

Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Cuba and Uruguay were the visiting countries mentioned to have been made for the participation in the British Empire exhibition which will be held in Buenos Aires at that time the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was advised in a letter before the directors this afternoon.

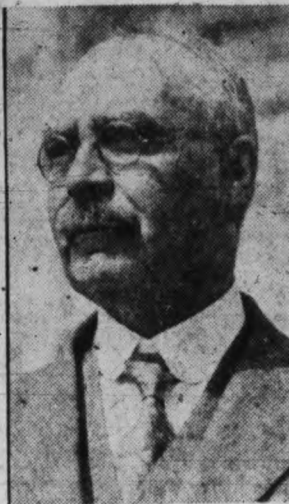

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has been formally invited by representative business men of the countries mentioned to confer with trade leaders.

SMALL LIST OF PROPERTIES UP FOR TAX SALE

With the smallest number of properties listed since 1919, the 1930 Victoria tax sale opened at the City Hall this morning at 10 o'clock and will continue throughout the week. The last-minute rush of owners to retain their property resulted in sixty-seven parcels being crossed off the list before it was thrown open for bidding. Out of the 234 properties listed only 167 went up for sale.

Five properties were sold to private buyers, bringing in a total of $1,478.05. The list is much smaller than last year, when it was also low, said Edwin C. Smith, city collector. "There was a total of 340 parcels listed in 1929 and of this number 105 went to the city collector, and 235 were sold to private buyers," he said.

CHAIRMAN OF FARM BOARD ARRIVES HERE

DR. J. D. MACLEAN
head of the Canadian Farm Loan Board, who arrived in the city to-day from Ottawa on an inspection tour of Vancouver Island and the lower British Columbia mainland. Dr. Maclean said that a good many applications for farm loans were being received by the board. He plans to remain here until Wednesday, when he will return east by way of Edmonton.

MANY MEN GET WORK ON NEW RAILWAY CARS

Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Commences Construction of Logging Cars

Construction has been commenced by the E. and N. Railway of a large number of railway flat cars, specially designed for handling the huge logs cut in the forests of Vancouver Island.

Last week a number of men were added to the staff of the Russell Street terminal repair and workshops and this morning an additional number was engaged. Pending arrival of the wheels and heavy brake equipment from eastern points, the men are engaged in assembling the sills and other main sections of the heavy wooden frames. The material for this work is being provided by Vancouver Island mills.

OBITUARY

The funeral of Percy Lawrie took place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. R. Connell officiating. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages." Among the large gathering of sympathizing friends were the members of the S.O.E. Lodge, attending in a body, and their services at the graveside were conducted by Bro. R. A. Buff, past president of Pride of the Island, No. 131, S.O.E., assisted by Bro. A. Weatherill, chaplain. A profusion of beautiful floral designs decorated the casket and the service. The following acted as pallbearers: E. Walker, Walter J. Finnmore, J. R. Saunders, G. A. O'Keel, C. W. Holley and Walter Rowson. Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The death occurred on Saturday evening at the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Florence Woodruff, aged six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Woodruff, 2210 Sayward Avenue. She is mourned by her parents, two brothers and a sister, and her grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan of Courtenay, V.I. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from McCall Bros. Funeral Home. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Mutholland will take place to-morrow morning, proceeding from McCall Bros. Funeral Home to St. Andrew's Cathedral, where mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Edith Eleanor MacNaughton, who passed away last Wednesday in Calgary, took place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Relatives and a large gathering of friends were in attendance and many beautiful flowers covered the casket. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick officiated and the hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee." The pallbearers were: R. Heister, R. Loughhead, M. Keil, P. McNaughton, Captain W. Heister and Captain W. Balcom. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

There passed away Wednesday at the family residence, Salt Spring Island, of Roderick MacLennan, age seventy-nine years. Born in Scotland, he had been a resident of Ontario for many years. The late Mr. MacLennan is survived by his widow at home and two sons in Winnipeg. He was a member of the Masonic Order, under whose auspices the funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel. The remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

There passed away this morning, at 10 o'clock, Mrs. Miss Margaret McCutcheon Muir, daughter of the late George Muir of Glasgow, Scotland, aged fifty-two years. She was born in Glasgow and had resided in this city for two years. Mrs. Muir was moving to the above address Miss Muir resided at 1145 Faithful Street. She leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. John Altkin of Glasgow and Miss Agnes W. Muir of Victoria, and one cousin, D. D. Muir, Victoria. The funeral will take place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Members of the St. George's Society will meet for a special meeting on Wednesday evening, not Tuesday as previously announced, in Unity Hall, Yates Street for the purpose of hearing an address by S. D'Arcy Carey, of Victoria, on "The Oriental Question." The general public are invited to attend the evening, which will commence at 8 o'clock.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE BOARD IS PROPOSED

Outcome of Visit of B.C. Lumbermen to Antipodes

Proposal Discussed at Meeting of Chamber of Commerce Directors To-day

The creation of an inter-Empire Chamber of Commerce organization which would embrace in its membership the Pacific Coast of Canada and the countries of New Zealand, Australia, Strait Settlements, Fiji and Hongkong was discussed at the meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

The proposal was contained in a letter from the Vancouver Board of Trade and is the outcome of the trade mission of British Columbia lumbermen to Australia and New Zealand last spring in the interests of developing trade between those countries and the Pacific Coast of Canada.

While the delegation was in the Antipodes representatives of Chambers of Commerce to include all organizations interested in the development of Pacific problems directly affecting the countries concerned. The matter was referred to the committee of committees for further investigation and a report.

The principle was unanimously endorsed. The proposal advanced by Vancouver is that the principal Chambers of Commerce should discuss the advisability of forming an inter-Empire Chamber of Commerce to include all organizations interested in the development of Pacific problems directly affecting the countries concerned. The matter was referred to the committee of committees for further investigation and a report.

RAYMOND TO SPEAK TUESDAY

English Writer Here To-morrow Under Education Council Auspices

To-morrow evening, at the First Baptist auditorium, 624 Douglas Street, Ernest Raymond, noted English author, who served as a padre on six war fronts, will speak on "The Spirit of England," under the auspices of the National Council of Education. The address will be given at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Raymond was one of the distinguished guests of the National Council at its international conference on education and leisure held in Victoria and Vancouver last year, and all who heard him will anticipate with the keenest of pleasure this opportunity of listening again to his eloquent message.

Nanaimo Hunter Shot Cougar at Seymour Narrows

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Nov. 3.—Dave Rogers, well-known local hunter, shot a large cougar at Seymour Narrows Saturday and collected the bounty.

Rogers was unlucky in not getting two as he shot another, but it got away, the hunter being hit in the leg. Rogers has several big cats to his credit.

The official board of the Metropolitan United Church will present Dr. Clem Davies in a lecture entitled "Modern Innocents Abroad" in the church auditorium on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be completely illustrated with magnificent pictures taken on the spot of the places visited, and will include one of the most enthralling lectures. Previously this lecture, delivered in the Royal Victoria, attracted a capacity house. Hundreds were unable to gain admission. There has been widespread demand for its repetition, and during the interval pictures have been prepared which will illustrate the lecture throughout.

BELASCO PLAY FEATURED AT THE CAPITOL

"Girl of the Golden West"
With Ann Harding and Excellent Supporting Cast

"Girl of the Golden West," a First National and Vitaphone film version of the famous Belasco stage success, opening to-day at the Capitol Theatre for a run of three days, is "modernized" in a new sense of the word.

John Francis Dillon, who directed the picture for First National, explains that even such a famous old stage drama, if presented with the same treatment on the screen that was used to thrill stage audiences, would seem a bit melodramatic and unreal.

"So we modernized 'Girl of the Golden West' without changing the story or the period at all," Dillon declares. "It is merely a matter of treatment, which bridges the difference between the old romanticism of the stage of a couple of decades ago, and the screen's needs for even greater realism to-day."

"Just as real scenic beauty supports the painted back drop," and pasted-on "wing," so an equal realism must be the aim of the modern film with its sound and photography so perfect that the illusion of life-likeness is nearly perfect."

Beautiful Models
In Fashion Revue
At the Playhouse

"The Golden Calf" Is Entertaining With Tunesful Melodies and Splendid Cast

Superlative entertainment is offered by "The Golden Calf," Fox Movietone comedy with music, which opened to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.

Tunesful melodies, 100 beautiful dancers, a romantic story with plenty of comedy and an all-star cast of principals guarantee this latest product of the Fox Studios as entertainment that will appeal to all classes.

The story is laid in Greenwich Village. Jack Mulhall is an advertising artist in search of a model with perfect legs to pose for a history advertisement, which is to bring him fame and fortune. Sue Carol, seen at first as his prim, old-maidish secretary, discovers she had the perfect measurements but has to reform her behavior into a beautiful, dashing model with loads of "it" before she can convince Mulhall of her good qualities.

Brilliant Actor Plays Leading Role in Elaborately Filmed Picture of India

An ancient Hindu temple, older than history, and time-stained centuries before Solomon's edifice was planned, served as the model for the tremendous temple built by Warner Bros. for the new all-talking Vitaphone version of "The Green Goddess," in which George Arliss is starred, and which is showing at the Columbia Theatre.

"The Green Goddess," corresponds in many ways to Kali, a native Hindu Goddess of Terror. Dozens of images of the mystic divinity are niched into the columns and walls of the temple. Grotesque torture chambers and rooms reserved for the weird and fantastic rites of the priests of the strange cult are provided as well as an extensive exterior and public meeting place.

The temple scenes are additional sequences in the story of "The Green Goddess" that could not be undertaken on the legitimate stage. Hundreds of extras are used in the ritualistic ceremonies preceding the sacrificial rites, and the temple beings upon this strange goddess altar.

The role of the cruel and gentlemanly Rajah in the exciting melodrama is one of the most popular and interesting portables. He played it for over three years on the American stage and one year in England. In the Vitaphone version it is said that his performance is perfection itself.

Good Comedy Team
At the Coliseum
In "The Cuckoos"

Clever Comedians Keep Audiences in Laughter By Humorous Antics

Wheeler and Woolsey are the featured comedy team in Radio Pictures' musical laugh riot, "The Cuckoos," now showing at the Coliseum.

When the pair first teamed together they were ambitious to become the leading funmakers of the stage. They played being funny so much that they were both on the verge of nervous breakdowns within a short time.

Wheeler reached an extremely serious condition at first. He was able to sleep but a short time each night, and was subject to nightmares. His obsession was to jump out of the window.

Woolsey says that he caught Bert in the act of going through the window one night. After that one never went to bed without the other and they slept handcuffed together.

Now they are both happy and contented. Bert and Bob say it's much nicer to work hard a few weeks making a picture like "The Cuckoos" and then rest in Hollywood while theatregoers all over the country watch them play in the screen.

CAIRO STUDENTS
FIGHT POLICE

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 3.—Five students were shot and several others arrested yesterday in a riot at the Boulah Technical School after attempts had been made to set fire to the building.

The wounded were taken to hospital. Premier Ismail Sidki Pasha held a long conference with the director of public safety regarding measures for maintaining order. There were disturbances in three other schools Saturday.

There has been acute tension in Egypt for some time due to differences between the government party and the Liberals over proposed constitutional reforms.

Police and cavalry were ordered out to patrol the streets late last month.

Russia Capturing
Lumber Markets
Across Pacific Now

Seattle, Nov. 3.—Business conditions generally throughout Japan are below last year, especially as far as lumber is concerned, according to R. A. Park, assistant manager of the National Trading and Lumber Company of Seattle and Kobe, who returned yesterday from Japan after a business visit of seven months' duration in that country.

"Russian lumber undoubtedly is having a harmful effect on American shipments to Japan," said Mr. Park. "The discriminatory tariff on lumber established by the Japanese Government three years ago also hinders American trade in Japan. This tariff is much more of a bar to American products in Russia than to Russian."

Mr. Park explained that the tariff has a bearing on woods that are grown in the United States, but which are virtually unknown in Russia. This fact, coupled with the cheap labor and generally lower prices for lumber which obtain in Russia, presents a serious handicap to American business in Japan.

Difficulty has been experienced by the Japanese in moving their products, especially silk, Mr. Park says. In view of the fact that their revenue has been greatly curtailed, it is only natural that their buying power and manufacturing and building programmes should be materially lowered.

CHINA TROOPS
MOVE AGAINST BANDS OF REDS

Shanghai, Nov. 3.—By land, water and air the Nationalist Government moved to-day against the Communist and bandit hordes which have ravaged the central provinces for months and constituted the principal obstacles to Hankow's effort to establish order throughout China.

Legions of infantry men, numbering more than 100,000, were dispatched yesterday to the provinces of Hunan and Kiangsi with orders to rescue the population from the grip of the Reds. A squadron of bombing planes, well supplied with bombs, was sent to Nanchang, Kiangsi, to serve as eyes for the infantry. Several gunboats were dispatched into the inland waters of Poyang Lake, Kiangsi, and Tungting Lake, Hunan, around whose borders the Reds have been active. The armed vessels were aimed to undertake to sweep Communists from the vicinities of these waters.

Irene Rich Is Equally Successful
As Mother and Screen Actress

By DAN THOMAS

Can a woman be a successful screen actress and an equally successful mother at the same time?

Many women would give a negative reply to this question. Mothers will tell you that it requires all of their time to bring up their children properly. And actresses will tell you that if one is to succeed in the celluloid profession she must give up her whole life to acting and nothing else.

When I asked Irene Rich this question she merely smiled and replied, "I'll let you be the judge of that—it would sound too egotistical for me to boast of my achievements either as an actress or a mother."

DAUGHTERS ADORE HER

After asking the question, I suddenly realized that it was rather a foolish one to put to Miss Rich. Her accomplishments in themselves were an affirmative answer. There can be no doubt about her success on the screen. She was a "big shot" for years in the old silent films and she is equally as big now that the talkies are in power. As for her success as a mother—one look at her two children, Frances, 17, and Jane, 15, tells the tale. "It would be difficult to find two girls with more good sense, poise and general attractiveness than these two possess. And it is easy to see that they regard their mother as the most wonderful person in the world."

As we were talking Frances came in completely tired out from a hard day's billiards to follow in her mother's footsteps before the camera. She is an actress and is starting by working as an extra during this summer vacation. "I never will tempt to mold the lives of either of my daughters," Miss Rich remarked after Frances had made her exit. "I have brought them up to the best of my ability and have the utmost confidence in both of them. Frances will finish school next spring and then I would like to have her go to Europe to study for a year or two but if she prefers to stay here and pursue a film career I will do everything in my power to help her."

"That is why I have encouraged her to find work as an extra this summer. She is learning what the business is like now and by the time she finishes school she should know if it is the 'right' one for her."

MUST HAVE ABILITY

In addition she is learning a great deal about human nature as one meets all kinds of people on a motion picture set. She also has come to the realization that if she ever gets anywhere it will have to be through her own ability and not through any influence I might have. I worked hard for what success I have had, as has everyone else who has attained much. It is the only way to go."

Miss Rich was considered "through" by a great many persons when the talkies came along. In fact, Warner Brothers even released her from her contract because they didn't think she could make the grade. Then Fox signed her to play opposite Will Rogers in "They Had To See Paris" and she was "through" and she has been kept ever since.

At present her make-up box is parked on the RKO lot, where she is appearing in the Ames "Andy picture," "Check and Double Check."

Two games must be played on each of the seven miniature courses, but may be played at any time during the month of November, and if any order desired. A list of the special prizes are being displayed at each course.

TWO BROKERS
APPEAL VERDICT

Toronto, Nov. 3.—A verdict of guilty was brought in by the jury after deliberating three and a half hours in the case of D. S. Peterson and William Campbell on charges of conspiracy to defraud and affect the price of stocks, the conclusion of their trial Saturday. Edgar McLean, accountant, was acquitted on similar charges. All three have yet to stand trial on a charge of gaming in stocks. McLean was allowed bail of $25,000.

The two convicted men filed notice of appeal late Saturday and were successful in obtaining bail from Chief Justice Sir William Hulton, pending the outcome of their appeal. Bail was set at $75,000 for Peterson and $50,000 for Campbell. Prior to their trial they were on bail of $50,000 each.

The address of W. N. Tilley, K.C., special prosecutor, and Mr. Justice Jeffrey's charge to the jury featured the hearing on Saturday.

Both the Canadian and Ontario premiers have accepted invitations to be present at the convocation.

Mass Consumption
Of Goods Is Newest
Suggestion of Wells

London, Nov. 3.—Speaking on "The World of Our Grandchildren," H. G. Wells, British author, yesterday put forth an idea whereby the world of the future would solve the economic riddle by developing mass consumption and community buying to meet adequately the system of mass production.

He referred to the "fantastic paradox of world business," declaring that "we have huge stocks of merchandise which the people cannot buy." He declared the equivalent to mass production was community buying.

He said he did not propose to state how his suggestion could be carried out, declaring it was a social and economic problem whose solution would rest with the future.

ELDERLY MAN
HURT BY THUGS

Vancouver, Nov. 3.—Three holdups, two cases of purse snatching and several burgharies occupied the attention of Vancouver police during the week-end.

J. Dorsette, proprietor of a grocery store at 30 St. Catherine's Street, was robbed in his store Saturday at 9:30 p.m. by two masked bandits. They escaped with $16.

David Dades, 1530 Franklin Street, was attacked by three footpads Saturday and robbed of $8. He told police Mr. Dades said the robbery took place at the corner of McLean Drive and Hastings Street. The thugs escaped in the fog.

A. Jones, 1174 Nicol Street, was robbed of a sum of money said to be over $100 by three youths who are reported to have attacked him Saturday at 9:15 p.m. at the corner of Howe and Hastings Streets. Mr. Jones, an elderly man, was knocked to the ground and received a cut over his left eye. He was found leaning against a fence at the corner by passersby who summoned police.

CLARA BOW IN COMEDY FARCE AT DOMINION

Red-headed Actress Has Leading Role in "Her Wedding Night" For Three Days

"Her Wedding Night," the fast and funny Avery Hopwood farce which opened a three day run at the Dominion Theatre to-day, might have been written expressly for Clara Bow, for, in it, the red-headed star has a role that fits her personality and talents to a "T." "Her Wedding Night" is pure, light-hearted fun. "Her Wedding Night" is jolly and pseudo-serious. "Her Wedding Night" tells of the adventures of a red-haired movie star on vacation in Paris and of her flight to escape her suitors. What could be more Clara Bow than that?

Clara Bow's youthful, light-hearted, love-throbbing appeal is at its best in farce comedy of this kind, into which not a moment of real serious drama enters. Clara, on her mad flight to the south of France to escape her self-styled sweethearts, is mistaken for an eloping bride. Skeets Gallagher, traveling under an assumed name, to help out his friend, Ralph Forbes, a popular song writer, is mistaken for an eloping bridegroom. Before either of them knows what is happening they are married by an ambitious and obliging small-town mayor, and, as Skeets uses his assumed name in signing the marriage register, which he mistakes for a hotel register, Clara finds herself wedded to a man she has never met.

Provinces Plan To Redeem Banks On Pool Guarantees

Saskatoon, Nov. 3.—Within the next few days, an announcement will be made by Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan, relative to arrangements made between the wheat pool and leading banks for redemption of advances. This statement is made by Hon. Howard McConnell, Provincial Treasurer.

All three provinces are linked with the pool and the banks in so far as they guaranteed the pool's loan-debts last February, when prices dropped close to the level of the pool's initial payments. It was agreed that the banks could call on the provinces after November 1 to implement their advances, but the premiers have stated that no request has yet been received from the banks.

CHURCHILL GIVES VIEWS ON PALESTINE

Unrealizable Britain May Return Mandate to League

Former Conservative Minister
Expresses Opinion on Government's Course

By RT. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL
Copyright by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency; Canadian Rights Reserved by the Canadian Press.

London, Nov. 3.—There are four milestones or signposts in British policy toward Zionism and Palestine, and the question which has now arisen is whether they all point the same way. The first of these signposts was erected when on November 2, 1917, the late Lord Balfour addressed to Lord Rothschild the letter known as "the Balfour declaration." "His Majesty's Government," wrote the British Foreign Secretary, "view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate achievement of this object."

promise given from sentimental motives, it was a practical measure taken in the interest of a common cause at a moment when that cause could afford to neglect no factor of material or moral assistance.

THE MANDATE
The second milestone was the acceptance in 1919 of the Palestinian mandate by Great Britain upon certain express terms. Article 2, the prime and fundamental article states:

"The mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political administrative and economic conditions as will secure establishment of the Jewish national home, as laid down in the preamble, the development of self-governing institutions, and also for safeguarding the civil and religious rights of all inhabitants in Palestine, irrespective of race or religion." The dual obligation, no doubt, is accepted by Great Britain.

Lord Passfield is not stating the case truly when he writes in the new white paper: "It is clear from the wording of this article that the population of Palestine, and not any sectional interest, is to be the object of the government's care." The essence of the Balfour declaration in 1917, and the League mandate commission's interpretation of the mandate in 1922, was that "the sectional interest" of the Jews in the establishment of their national home was to be the object of the government's care and in the words of the article, the mandatory power assumed responsibility for bringing about the political, administrative and economic conditions which would secure the establishment of the Jewish national home.

ASSURANCES NEEDED
The third milestone is found in the Colonial Office dispatches and published in June, 1922. Here we have quit the region of mandates and declarations, and the British Government is face to face with the inherent, though not insuperable difficulties of the problem. They have to set limits both of speed and method to practical year-to-year progress of the Zionist scheme. They have to offer to the Arab population definite and concrete assurances as to the sphere within which their civil and religious rights will be safeguarded.

CHARACTER OF HOME

Instructions telegraphed on June 29, from the Colonial Office to the officer administering the government of Palestine set this out in a simple summary. "Firstly," His Majesty's Government reaffirm the declaration of November, 1917, which is not susceptible to change. Second, a Jewish national home will be founded in Palestine. The Jewish people will be in a Palestine as a right and not on sufferance. But His Majesty's Government have no such aim in view as that Palestine should become as Jewish as England is English.

This statement of practical policy required to fulfill the obligations of the mandate and of the Balfour declaration was inconspicuously rejected by the Arabs and accepted only with disappointment by the Zionists.

We now come to the fourth milestone, namely the white paper issued from the Colonial Office by Lord Passfield in October last. The question which has to be judged is whether the new declaration of the Socialist Government departs from the position established in 1922, which position was, however, reluctantly accepted by the Zionist leadership on the part of the Balfour letter and of the mandate.

DEVIATIONS SEEN
There are, however, at least two deviations of principle which must be remarked, the first has already been mentioned. Lord Passfield is basing himself on the assumption of the permanent mandates commission of the League of Nations that the obligations laid down by the mandate in regard to the two sections of population are of equal weight, has overlooked or ignored the fact that the obligations are totally different in character. Secondly, frequent use in Lord Passfield's paper of mandatory obligations "to inhabitants of Palestine, both Arabs and Jews," diverges fundamentally from the 1922 white paper, which following upon the Balfour declaration and the mandate, recognized the obligation not only to the inhabitants of Palestine—Arab or Jew—but to the Zionist movement all over the world to whom the original promise was made. . . .

EXTERNAL OBLIGATIONS
Discrepancy in fact and in spirit is obvious. British obligation is not limited to the inhabitants of Palestine. It must also consider the external obligation. The duty of the British Government cannot be discharged merely by a convenient administrative treatment of a local situation.

There is no use at this stage in examining whether the obligations Great Britain had contracted by the Balfour letter and the Palestine mandate were wise or unwise. The sole question is whether they are being fulfilled. If it is held by impartial opinion they are not being fulfilled, or that they are incapable of fulfillment, or that our latest government has neither the will nor the means to preserve in their fulfillment, there is one relief and one relief only which can be sought. No one could claim the British nation is bound for all time, irrespective of events or of its own physical and moral strength, to pursue the policy or establishment of the Jewish national home. But from the moment we recognize and proclaim we have departed from these undertakings and are regarding the Zionist cause as a mere inconvenient incident in the Colonial Office administration of Palestine, we are bound to return our mandate to the League of Nations and forego the strategic, moral and material advantages arising from the British control of, and association with the Holy Land.

FOUR KILLED IN BUS CRASH

St. Galmier, Paris, Nov. 3.—Four persons were killed and nineteen injured to-day when a motor bus skidded from a road near here and plunged into a ravine. The identities of the victims were not immediately ascertained.

HEAD SURGEONS

They're new officers of the American College of Surgeons, and were chosen at the thirteenth annual convention, held in Philadelphia. President-elect is Dr. C. J. Miller, top of New Orleans, La., professor of gynecology at Tulane University. Dr. Frederick A. Besley, below, of Washington, D.C., was chosen treasurer of the organization.

JUST 100 YEARS AGO ALSO GLOOMY PERIOD; PROPHECIES RECALLED

In Edinburgh Review of January, 1830, Macaulay Compares 1830 With What People Would Think in 1930.

Under the heading "Cheer Up!" has published the following as a contribution to the restoration of confidence at this time when many can see no hope at all. The Harriman's have sent a copy to their Victoria Correspondent, H. E. Hunnings.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW
JANUARY, 1830
Pages 563-565

History is full of the signs of this natural progress of society. We see in almost every part of the annals of mankind how the industry of individuals, struggling against wars, taxes, famines, conflagrations, mischievous prohibitions and more mischievous prohibitions, creates faster than governments can squander and repairs whatever invaders can destroy. We see the capital of nations increasing and all the arts of life approaching nearer and nearer to perfection in spite of the grossest corruption and the wildest profusion on the part of rulers.

The present moment is one of great distress. But how small will that distress appear when we think over the history of the last forty years—a war, compared with which, all other wars sink into insignificance;—taxation, such as the most heavily taxed people of former times could not have conceived;—a debt larger than all the public debts that ever existed in the world added together;—the food of the people studiously rendered dear;—the currency impudently debased, and improvidently resorted to. Yet, is the country poorer than in 1790? We fully believe that, in spite of all the misgovernment of her rulers she has been almost constantly becoming richer and richer. Now and then there has been a stoppage, now and then a short retrogression; but as to the general contingency there can be no doubt. A single break may recede, but the tide is evidently coming in.

WEALTHIER AND WEALTHIER

If we were to prophesy that in the year 1930, a population of 50,000,000, better fed, clad, and lodged than the English of our time, will cover these islands,—that Sussex of Huntingdonshire will be wealthier than the wealthiest part of the West-riding of Yorkshire now are,—that cultivation, rich as that of a flower-garden, will be carried up to the very tops of Ben Nevis and Helvellyn,—that machines, constructed on principles, yet undiscovered, will be in every house,—that there will be no highways but railroads, no traveling but by steam,— that our debt, vast as it seems to us, will appear to our great-grandchildren a trifling encumbrance, which might easily be paid off in a year or two,—many people would think us insane. We prophesy nothing; but this we say—if any person had told the parliament which met in perplexity and terror after the crash of 1720 that in 1830 the wealth of England would surpass all their wildest dreams that the annual revenue would equal the principal of that debt which they considered an intolerable burden—that for one man of £10,000 then living there would be five men of £50,000; that London would be twice as large and twice as populous and that nevertheless the mortality would have diminished to one-half what it then was;—that the post office would bring more into the exchequer than the excise and customs had brought in together under Charles II.—that stage coaches would run from London to York in twenty-four hours—that men would sail without wind, and would be beginning to ride without horses—our ancestors would have given as much credit to the prediction as they gave to Gulliver's Travels. Yet, the prediction was then true; and they would have perceived that it was not altogether absurd if they had considered that the country was then raising every year a sum which would have purchased the fee-simple of the revenue of the Plantagenets—ten times what supported the Government of Elizabeth—three times that, in the time of Oliver Cromwell, what had been thought intolerably oppressive. To almost all men the state of things in which they have been used to live seems to be the necessary state of things. We have heard it said, that 5 per cent is the natural interest of money, that twelve is the natural number of a jury, that forty shillings is the natural qualification of a country voter. Hence this, that though in every age, everybody knows that up to his own time progressive improvement has been taking place, nobody seems to reckon on any improvement during the next generation. We cannot absolutely prove that those are in error who tell us that society has reached the turning point—that we have seen our best days. But so said all who shot to the billiard expert.

came before us—with just as much apparent reason.

PROPHETS OF DESTRUCTION

"A million a year will beggar us," said the patriots of 1640.

"Two millions a year will grind the country to powder," was the cry in 1660.

"Six millions and a debt of fifty millions!" exclaimed Swift—"the high allies have been the ruin of us."

"A hundred and forty millions of debt," said Junius—"will may we owe Lord Chatham more than we shall every pay, if we owe him such a load as this."

"Two hundred and forty millions of debt!" cried all the statesmen of 1783 in chorus—"what economy on the part of a minister can save a country so burdened?" We know that if, since 1783, no debt had been incurred, the increased resources of the country would have enabled us to defray that burden, at which Pitt, Fox and Burke stood aghast—15 defray it over and over again, and with that much lighter taxation than what we have actually borne. On what principle is it, that if we see nothing but improvement behind us, we are to expect nothing but deterioration before us?

It is not by the intermeddling of Mr. Southey—the omniscient and omnipotent state—but by the prudence and energy of the people, that England has hitherto been carried forward in civilization; and it is to the same prudence and the same energy that we now look with comfort and good hope. Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the people by strictly confining conditions to their own legitimate duties—by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment—by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state.

Let the government do this—the people will assuredly do the rest.

MINISTRY ENDS PLOT IN GREECE

Athens, Nov. 3.—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos returned here yesterday evening from Ankara and immediately discussed with members of the cabinet the alleged plot of Gen. Theodoros Pangalos and officers of the Athens Garrison to overthrow the government.

Premier Venizelos later received newspapermen and told them conspirators had taken advantage of his absence in Turkey to plan a revolution, but as he had known their time about returning.

General Pangalos and a number of officers and civilians are under arrest. The general was dictator of Greece in 1928.

An oval billiard table has been introduced which offers more difficult shots to the billiard expert.

The Dial Telephones Are Now in Use

REMEMBER THE SIMPLE RULES

THE dial telephone system is now in use in Victoria.

Every Victoria telephone number has been changed. The new numbers appear in the new directory.

Each of the new numbers consists of an exchange name (either "Empire" or "Garden") and four figures.

Dial the first letter of the exchange name.

Then dial each of the four figures.

Before commencing to dial, take the receiver off the hook and listen for the dial tone, a humming sound which tells you that you may begin dialing.

Keep the receiver off the hook while you are dialing.

As soon as you have finished dialing, the telephone you are calling will ring.

Or, if the called line is busy, you will hear the same "busy tone" that you did under the old system.

IF you want further instructions, dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator who answers.

If you want "Long Distance," dial 110. (No letter to dial).

If you want "Information," dial 113. (No letter to dial).

If you wish to call an Albion, Belmont or Colquhoun number, dial the figure "0" (Operator) and give the called number and your own number to the operator who answers.

If you wish to call a Keating number, dial 110 and give the called number and your own number to the long-distance operator who answers.

In an emergency, you may dial the figure "0" (Operator) and ask the operator to call the police or fire department, or whatever you require.

If you have a party line, to call another party on your line follow the instructions on Page Six of your new directory.

Complete instructions regarding the dial telephone appear in your telephone directory.

We also have a special dial demonstration office at 620 Fort Street (opposite the Pemberton Building) where our instructors will be glad to show you how to use the dial telephones. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY

Please Don't Make "Curiosity Calls"

We urge you not to telephone your friends merely to try out the new system. An abnormal number of calls will hinder us in getting the apparatus working smoothly.

EXTRA DIVIDEND CAUSES SPURT IN IMPERIAL OIL

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Profit-taking produced an earlier gain of approximately three points in Imperial Oil to 140, but the stock, nevertheless, firmed on Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Imperial's rise, due to the announcement of a 50 cents a share dividend, was followed by a sharp distribution of 50 cents a share, announced by directors Saturday, to an improvement in the oil group and provided the one bright spot in what was otherwise a slow day.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Seven For a Secret

By MARY WEBB

"I must tell you, my dear, it isn't new," said Aunt Panteague. "It's jewelry. And I know the vanity of your heart, Juliana."

"Jewelry! Oh, Auntie!"

"You can undo it, if you've a mind." Gillian most certainly had a mind. She undid it. And there lay a small coralline heart with a golden chain through which a ribbon was to be slipped. It was wonderful—a fairy gift. It had color, which she loved, and romance, and it was her first ornament.

"Oh, dearie, dearie me!" She fled to the kitchen, returning slowly.

"Spill, I suppose?"

"Spill, em!"

"They came. Twenty-four cheese-cakes and some pastry 'fingers,' all of ebony-black."

"How much stuff went to 'em?"

"Found of flour, half dripping, three oranges, sugar, two eggs."

"What 'ud that cost, sister?"

"Well, as you've got your own fowl, maybe about a shilling, Gillian."

"Oh, father! Not a coney shilling?"

"Ah."

"Fetch it a music lesson, father!"

"Fetch it. I'll learn you not to get dreamy and mothered like poor Emily. You be glad I'm too lazy to leather ye."

Gillian retired to the kitchen in tears. Her aunt, coming out to "dry" while she washed-up, was prepared to comfort the weeping penitent.

But instead of a penitent she saw, when she entered, two pillows placed in chairs at the table. One was dressed in Isiah's best coat and hat, the other in Gillian's summer frock, a lace curtain for a veil, and the coralline heart. "It's said Gillian," Mr. Gentle's spoken at long last!

CHAPTER IV

Aunt Panteague was to stay a fortnight. She had been at Dyswifes a week before Gillian found courage to think of asking her about the visit to Silvertown. Now she was desperate, because when she got up at seven and peeped into the outer world, the sky was soft and woolly with snow, and a few flakes already wandered past the window—meaning that Aunt Panteague would hasten her departure lest, as she said, "a worse thing befall her." At Dyswifes people were often snowed-up for a week at a time, and Aunt Panteague had never been away at Christmas, for then poor Emily and Mr. Gentle could not keep the festive Aunt Panteague in the house.

"This day, if ever!" said Gillian, breaking the ice in her jug and wondering, as she washed her face, how she would break the ice in Aunt Panteague's mind.

As she lit the kitchen fire she thought how lovely it would be to live at a grand place like the Drover's Arms at Weeping Cross, where the Farmer's Ordinary was of which her father told her carefully censored tales when he came back from fairs and auctions.

While she sat by the sudden blaze made by an arm of heather and chips and drank her cup of tea, she read the serial in the weekly paper her father took in. It told how a prettier than any new-fangled clock, "But they lina going to get married."

"I don't know, my dear."

"What does Aunt Emily think?"

"She wouldn't consider it ladylike to think anything till Mr. Gentle spoke."

"And dunnah he?"

"No, my dear. Not like that. He says it's blowing up for rain, or there's a peck of March dust, or what a slight of apple-blow, or as it was a peck of sermon, and he reads. We're doing Crabbe now. And once he said he liked lilac, when Aunt Emily had a lilac dress on. But that's all."

"He's said Isiah, and buried his face in his cup."

"Oh, Auntie, how awful!"

"No, my dear, it's very pleasant."

"Awful for poor Aunt Emily! Coddling about-year after year! I'd want Mr. Gentle to fall down on his knees—"

"He's a little bit rheumatic, Juliana. He should be done it when he could. To fall down on his knees and say: 'I love ye! And get up quick and kiss me till I couldna breathe.'"

Mrs. Panteague looked at her brother accusingly.

"Like father, like child!" she said.

"And then for him to say: 'Fix the day! Fix it! Fix it! And me all in a flutter, like the ducks when I catch 'em. And away to church. And into the trap. And off to the station! And him saying: 'You be mine for ever and ever.' Only I dunna think Mr. Gentle would do. Can he drive and ride without a saddle? Durnt he walk along the top of a wagon of hay when it's going quick, like Robert does?"

Mrs. Panteague smiled. "It was not easy for her to smile, because her face had set in other lines."

"Juliana," she said, "if ever you see Mr. Gentle, you'll understand. No word of mine can make you. Mr. Gentle's one that never has a speck on him, and never loses his dignity; he's a real polished gentleman."

"Oh, dear, sister! I shouldna like him. He'd kiss so soft."

Isiah came to life.

"What d'ye know about kisses, my girl? Has Robert been playing the fool? I'll give him the best!"

"You wouldn't find it so easy! Robert's strong. But he hanna kissed me no wanted to. I never thought of it afore you said."

She began to look dreamy.

"I'd like it to be said as Gillian Lovelace married young and had a very sweet husband. They were as good as dead when they were married."

"Did you take them pastries out of oven?" inquired Isiah.

"RICHEST BACHELOR" TAKES A BRIDE

No longer "America's richest bachelor," John Nicholas Brown is pictured here with his bride, the former Miss Anne Kinsolving, after the wedding ceremony in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore. Descendant of an old and wealthy New England family, Brown now has a fortune variously estimated at from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. Mrs. Brown is a former newspaper woman. The couple were married by her father, Dr. A. B. Kinsolving, rector of the Baltimore church.

BRIDGE

By WM. E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Bridge League

A finesse should never be reverted to unless there is no other possible play. Any finesse the declarer would attempt to make in the following hand would fail, but by correct play, six hearts is still made.

NORTH
S-A-1-8
H-A-K-Q-9-7-6
D-A-J-3
C-4

EAST
S-Q-9-8

SOUTH-DEALER C-10-8-7
S-K-3
H-3
D-K-9-7-6
C-A-Q-J-9-8-2

The Bidding
South, the dealer, holding the required two and one-half high card tricks, opens the bidding with one club. West pass, North bid two hearts which is a forcing bid showing at least five hearts and two aces. South with one club and two aces, returns the club. South went to three clubs showing at least a five-card club suit. North then took the declaration to six hearts which closed the contracting.

The Play
The play that gives the declarer the most trouble is the opening of the jack ness in the betrayed one. It had a thrill. She had lived, this girl, for nearly a year in a "palatial suite" somewhere near a place called Piccadilly. Gillian supposed that this was where the pickle came from, which occasionally varied the home-made red cabbage. She went to the theatre. She wore satin, jewels, swansdown. She was called "Madame." She was kissed. She went about in a motor car, marvelously unholstered, with the man who betrayed her. Who was over six feet tall in his (expensively) stockinged feet, and had a long drooping moustache and a fur coat. Gillian was sure he could have walked about on the most toppling load of hay without the slightest inconvenience. Delightful! There he was, within a few hours' journey of Silvertown. If once she could get there, she would only have to step into a train, and in such a little while she would be in London. The rest, no doubt, followed mechanically.

"Ask her, I will, this very day! She may say she's deaf. She may read a book. She may walk out of the room. But I'll ask her. If I can get to Silvertown, I can get to London."

She surveyed herself in the kitchen mirror.

"I'm not so bad. And if I learn to sing that'll be one more for this here Julia couldna sing a note."

While she stirred the porridge, she had a vision of herself in this date-colored dress (what was to be), with a feather hat made of the slaty drake, walking in high-heeled satin shoes past shops full of yellow, square bottles of nicotinic.

"Dreamy!" said her father, as he knocked the earth from his boots and came in to breakfast. Now look lively, my girl, for the sooner I start the more chance to get back early. It's white-over now, and I've got to get a hundred sheep back after night."

"It's set in for snow, Isiah!" asked Mrs. Panteague.

"Then I pack. I'll catch the last train from the Keep."

"A short visit, sister. Isiah. If I stay, maybe the thaw won't come till after Christmas. And Emily'd be all alone."

"There'd be Mr. Gentle, Auntie."

"Aunt Emily wouldn't dream of asking a gentleman to the place in my absence," said Aunt Panteague.

Gillian opined that there were a good many different kinds of women in the world, for what could be more different than the minds of Emily and Isiah? And she herself was like neither.

Isiah swallowed his breakfast, went to the door and shouted for Robert. "Be a my girl, for the sooner I start the more chance to get back early. It's white-over now, and I've got to get a hundred sheep back after night."

"No, I must make shift, for Jonathan must take Mrs. Panteague. I'll ride the cob, and call for Dossel's lad—he's got a pony. He'll give me a hand with the sheep."

"I'd sooner Robert drove me," observed Mrs. Panteague.

Jackie. He started off, took one step, with all the other animal boys and girls from school watching, and then, all of a sudden, something happened. The line wiggled. Jackie "juggled" as he said afterwards, and he began to fall.

Oh, catch me! Catch me!" he cried, clinging with just his front paws to the line and dangling high in the air.

"Catch me!"

Luckily Uncle Wiggly came out of the bungalow just then. He ran into the yard and caught under Jackie the basket of clean clothes Nurse Jane had taken from the line.

Let go, Jackie, and fall on the ground. Jackie Wiggly. So the puppy dog did this and down he came on top of a pile of sheets and pillow cases just as the circus man falls into a net. Jackie was so scared that he began to cry. Jackie being hurt, though his paws dirtied a clean sheet. But Nurse Jane said she would wash it again.

"I guess can't walk a tight rope," Jackie whined. He jumped out of the basket. And he didn't try again in a long time. But if the ice pick will take the skin off a banana, a tight-rope master can lead the strawbray shortcake. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and Peetle's trick.

GANG KILLS TWO MEN IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Frank Smurlo, twenty-one, and William "Smooth" Serza, thirty-five, minor hoodlums, who struck a liquor with an occasional flit into hijacking, were shot to death yesterday in a shabby speakeasy they conducted on the northwest side of Chicago.

The bodies, punctured by pistol slugs, were found on the blood-stained floor of their establishment amidst a cluster of chairs and bottles, many of them shattered in the struggle that apparently had preceded the shooting.

Detectives said they were inclined to believe the two men had been slain when Smurlo resisted a bandit gang.

"All the Other Old Autocracies Are Going Into Dis- card Now—Why Not Send Home Along With the Rest and Substitute for It a Democracy in Which Parents and Children Will Have Equal Rights?"

THE thing that is the matter with the home is that it is an autocracy instead of a democracy, and autocracy is obsolete in this age of freedom. Sometimes it is the parents who are grinding tyrants who try to make downtrodden slaves of their children. Just as often it is the children who are absolute monarchs of the household, and who rule their parents with a rod of iron. Seldom do the members of a family circle meet together in the spirit of mutual toleration and recognition of each other's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

It is folly to deny that most homes are a perpetual battleground on which civil war—and sometimes war that isn't so civil—is ceaselessly waged, and that when we sing that "There is no place like home," not a few of us are inwardly thanking God for it.

Else why, when we want to have a good time and enjoy ourselves, do we go away from home to do it? Why, when we need a rest cure, do our doctors always send us away from home to take it? Why do children leave home just as soon as they can stand on their own feet? Why do parents, no matter how much they love their children, breathe a sigh of thankfulness when they get them established in business and safely married and with homes of their own?

The answer is self-evident. We all crave peace. The passion of our hearts is for a little personal liberty and we seldom find it in our homes. In our homes there was always some one seeking to dominate us, trying to force his or her will on us. Somebody interfering with all of our tastes and habits and plans and attempting to coerce us into substituting his or hers for our own desires.

Hence the family row that makes most households a storm centre. Hence the anxiety and the heartache of parents who complain bitterly of the ingratitude of children. Hence the hard-boiled children who openly defy their parents and go their wild, blundering, unguided way to destruction. Hence the unsolvable problem of parents and children that is unsolvable merely because nobody thinks about solving it on a fifty-fifty basis.

Parents will not recognize that the heavy father stuff has passed into the limbo of outgrown things, along with the absolute right of kings. The old patriarchal days, when a man's children were just as much his chattels as his horses and cattle and when he could exact implicit obedience from his sons and daughters, have gone, never to return.

In those days when parenthood was a graft father decided every detail of his children's lives. He picked out their occupations for them without any reference to their own inclinations or talents. He selected their husbands and wives for them, and if they didn't meekly do as he said he cursed them and turned them out of doors without a penny.

You cannot use those tactics in dealing with the modern young person who is, likely as not, not only making his own living, but helping to support the family, yet parents still try it. They simply will not see that the high-handed way of treating a self-supporting girl and boy will not work. Their financial independence automatically frees them from parental control.

So when father and mother tell John where he gets on and off, and forbid Mary having dates or staying out after 11 o'clock, John and Mary simply snap their fingers in their parents' faces and do as they please. They will not be ordered about, but if there had never been any autocracy in the family, if it had always been a democracy in which all of the problems relating to the children had been talked over freely, and they had been given the privilege of expressing their own desires and the right of self-determination to a large extent, John and Mary would be amenable to reason and willing to be guided largely by their parents.

And that is all parents have any right to expect of their children, for, after all, the fact that people bear children does not endow them with supernatural wisdom, nor do father and mother always know what is best for their children. Many old hens hatch out swans and spend their lives trying to keep them out of the water. Very often a child is utterly different from its parents in physical development, in mental ability, in temperament and talent, that its father and mother are no more fitted to guide it than an earthworm is the flight of an eagle.

But if it is bad for parents to be dictators to their children, it is even worse when the children are the ones who must be obeyed in the family. We see plenty of the tragedy of chicken-pecked parents. Fathers and mothers who have sacrificed everything in the world to give their children advantages of education that they themselves never had; who go shabby that their children may be well dressed; who never even ride in the cars they pay for except when the children don't happen to want to go out and who are despised and held in contempt by their children.

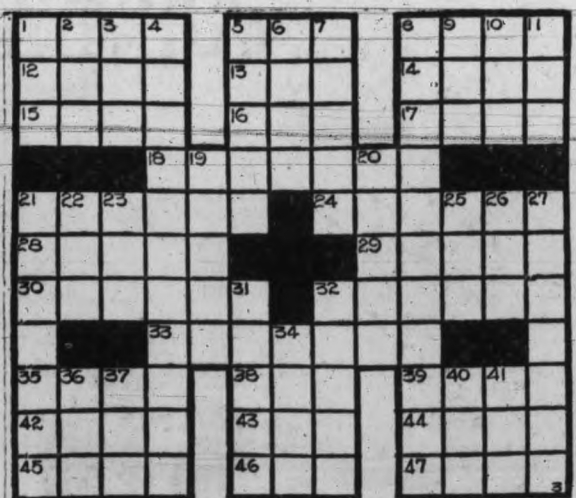

The remedy for all this is to make the home a democracy. If the children had shared in the sacrifices that the parents had to make, if they had borne part of the family burden, they would have a sympathy and understanding for their father and mother that they never have. It would have given them a sense of family solidarity that they lack, and it would have strengthened and steadied them and made them better men and women.

All the other old autocracies are going into the discard now. Why not send the home along with the rest and substitute for it a democracy in which parents and children will have equal rights?

Telephone System Changed To Dials Saturday Midnight

Lieutenant-Governor Bruce Congratulates City and British Columbia Telephone in Long Distance Conversation Over New Instruments; Cut-over Completed in Few Minutes By Skilled Operatives; Vice-president J. Hamilton Announces Construction of British Columbia Section of Transcanada Telephone System.

Victoria's new dial system of telephones was placed in service at midnight Saturday, the change being accomplished in less than four minutes with remarkable efficiency. Careful preparation and a large staff of specially trained men, resulted in a minimum of interference, less than a score of conversations being interrupted by the process, although more than 17,000 services were affected.

When the zero hour arrived at 11:55 o'clock, V. L. Bunkelman, dispatcher in charge of the cut-over, signaled to A. R. Harness, in charge of twelve men protected by goggles and masks, who pulled cords which violently ejected over 18,000 bullet-like heat coils from their seats in eighteen seconds, thereby disconnecting the old system. At the same time, on the lower floor occupied by the automatic apparatus, a larger number of men directed by P. C. Nevard snapped into place thousands of clusters of switches which connected the selector apparatus to the city's telephones, the operation being completed in less than three minutes.

Preceding the cut-over an audience of telephone officials and invited citizens was addressed on the main floor of the new building by James Hamilton, vice-president and general manager of the British Columbia Telephone Company, and Mayor Anson.

HUGE PROGRAMME
Mr. Hamilton said the B.C. Telephone Company was not only keeping abreast of the times but building far into the future. He cited present projects and the telephone development in Victoria since 1910 as examples of the company's progressive spirit. In 1910 Victoria had only 3,400 telephones, whereas it now had 17,000, he said. He also called attention to the fact that in 1910 there was only one long-distance circuit between Victoria and the mainland, whereas there were now twenty-four circuits, including twelve direct Victoria-Vancouver lines. The British Columbia Telephone Company was engaged in building the British Columbia portion of a trans-Canada line, Mr. Hamilton announced. This would be completed either late in 1931 or early in 1932, and would permit Victoria subscribers to talk across Canada by an all-Canadian route.

Mr. Hamilton called attention to the inauguration of the new dial system as a further evidence of the company's desire to provide modern facilities and the highest grade of service.

He took the opportunity to thank the press of Victoria for its co-operation throughout the period that led to the conversions, and also paid tribute to the teamwork of all of the company's employees, which had contributed so much to the success of the cut-over.

Mr. Hamilton referred in feeling terms to the late R. B. McMicking, founder of the Victoria telephone system fifty years ago and expressed delight in being able to welcome and introduce the first telephone operator in the history of British Columbia, E. J. Houghton, now superintendent of Dominion Telegraphs in British Columbia.

MAYOR REPLIED
Mayor Anson expressed pleasure at being able to witness the inauguration of the great development. His experience as mayor of the city had been that the telephone company was always willing to do everything possible when called upon for service and assistance. The co-operation extended at all times had been everything that could be desired. "We should be very proud of this tremendous development," he said commenting upon the many changes and advancements which have marked the progress of telephony in Victoria during fifty years.

Mayor Anson then shook hands with Mr. Hamilton and with P. C. Paterson, district commercial superintendent, who acted as master of ceremonies.

GOVERNOR CONGRATULATES
Shortly after midnight, at the invitation of Mr. Hamilton, a number of official calls were made from the telephone exchange building to formally initiate the new dial telephone system. Mayor Anson called his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor at Trail and announced the dial system was in service in Victoria. His Honor in reply congratulated the Mayor to convey his heartiest congratulations to Mr. Hamilton and officials of the telephone company and also warmly congratulated Victoria upon being provided with such a notable public utility. Speaking to Mr. Hamilton, the Lieutenant-Governor remarked that the Victoria installation was a great event in the history of the company and that in such times of depression it was splendid to see such progress. He expressed sorrow that Victoria would no longer hear the cheerful voice of the obliging young ladies as "central" and requested that they be informed of his appreciation of the good service collectively given.

Mayor Anson then rang Premier S. F. Tolmie, who remarked that Victoria had been one of the first cities on the coast to have electric light and that it was a great thing that the city should be equipped with dial telephones. He congratulated the officials of the telephone company, personally assuring Mr. Hamilton "If ever the Government can be of any use to your company we shall be only too glad to do so."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
P. B. Fowler, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, when called by B. C. Nicholas, tendered to Mr. Hamilton the congratulations of the Chamber, and in reply was told that the Chamber and other public bodies had been very helpful. Mr. Hamilton added the hope that the service would warrant commendations in the future.

Mr. R. B. McMicking, called by C. S. Swayne, said the occasion caused her to look backward over the last fifty years to the creation by her late husband of the first system, then located on Troughton Alley. She had inspected the new plant and considered the progress wonderful. Mr. McMicking also spoke to Mr. Houghton, expressing appreciation that she had been included among the first calls.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the conversations.

MODEL PLANE MEET ON JAN. 2

Victoria Model Aircraft League to Hold Indoor Meet on January 2

Plans for the first indoor meet of this season were laid before the executive of the Victoria Model Aircraft League at their meeting held last week. It was decided to hold the meet on Friday, January 2, at either of two places, the Victoria High School or the Y.M.C.A.

It was stated at the meeting that subject to the approval of the technical advisors of the League a class for scale model gliders would be on the programme of events. The executive of the League unanimously passed a resolution thanking the Victoria Times for the splendid plans of model aircraft that had been published last season and for the better plans that were published this year.

Plans for the formation of a new flight were laid before the meeting by Byron Maintrize, who wished of his flight to be affiliated with the league.

The Y.M.C.A. Flight of the Victoria Model Aircraft League held a meeting on Saturday at their headquarters at the "Y." A number of new members were welcomed by Squadron Leader Roy Shadbolt and Flight-Commander Harold Rose. Talks were given on construction and assembly of primary models together with methods of flying these and more advanced types of planes.

Port Alberni

Special to The Times

Port Alberni, Nov. 2.—E.K.'s Hall was filled to capacity Wednesday evening, when the members of the Ladies' Association of the United Church were hosts at a Halloween frolic and feast. Mrs. J. ## Dial Telephone Was Invention Of Undertaker

One day about forty years ago a Missouri undertaker by the name of Almon B. Strowger went down to his office and began to read his morning newspaper. His attention was attracted by an item which stated that a friend of his was dead, and to his astonishment and chagrin he discovered that the friend was to be buried by a rival undertaker. Mr. Strowger jumped to the conclusion that someone had tried to call him by telephone, but that the operator had connected the party with his competitor, with the result that he had lost the business.

The story goes that he flew into a rage and rang up the operator to say what he thought of the treatment he had received. While the matter was still in his mind he conceived the idea of a telephone system without an operator. In those days it was possible to buy a supply of paper collars in a box. With the aid of one of the collar boxes and some pins Mr. Strowger made a crude model of an automatic telephone system. From this beginning grew the dial telephone system, which has been inaugurated in Victoria.

Colwood

The community card party was held in the Colwood Hall on Wednesday evening last. There were seven tables of five hundred and the highest scores were made by Mrs. C. Kemp and Mr. B. Parker, and low by Mrs. W. Longworth and Mr. G. Milburn. Mrs. B. B. Murray received a silver tray for making the highest score for three consecutive weeks, and Mr. J. F. Robinson received a special prize for the month's score.

Announcement was made of the re-organization of the Belmont Badminton Club, and the first game will be played on Wednesday, November 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The Wilfert Lumber Company's social club held a most successful dance in the Colwood Hall on Friday evening. Pitt's six-piece orchestra supplied popular items for the three hundred guests and dancing was kept up until 3 a.m.

The prize winners for five hundred were: Mrs. G. M. Piercy, Miss M. McCulloch, Mr. J. Jamieson and Mr. W. Savory. The tombola, a cord of wood donated by the Colwood Wood Co., went to Miss M. McCulloch. Other tombola awards were made to Mrs. Langton, Miss M. Guy, Miss V. Talbot, Mrs. Vivian, Mr. Allen, Mr. A. McCulloch, Miss Luckovich. The committee in charge of the evening's entertainment were: Messrs. F. Wilfert, G. Fagan, F. H. Lundin, T. L. Clarke, W. Moyer, G. M. Murray, H. Parker, V. A. Green, C. Castagne, V. A. Green acted as master of ceremonies.

LEAD JACKETS PROTECT WIRES BELOW GROUND

New Exchange Linked to 30,000 Wires Without Interrupting Service

Skilled Craftsmen Worked in Subterranean Tunnel For Eight Months

In the basement of the telephone exchange building is a concrete-lined tunnel, which projects out under Johnson Street to the mainline there. All the Victoria telephone lines reach the building by means of lead-covered cables which approach the building underground and enter by means of this tunnel, known as the "cable vault". The cable vault is electrically lighted and is high enough to permit men to walk in it without difficulty.

The cables are arranged neatly along the tunnel walls. This cable vault was constructed to serve the new building addition which houses the automatic telephone equipment. Under the old layout the cables entered an old cable vault and made their way to the upper floors where the switchboard and other equipment are located.

When the automatic apparatus was installed in the new addition it was necessary to have cables run from it into the new cable vault, where they met the old cables. There the lines in the old cables were spliced to those in the new cables, so that the telephone lines of the Victoria subscribers to a trans-Canada line, Mr. Hamilton announced. This would be completed either late in 1931 or early in 1932, and would permit Victoria subscribers to talk across Canada by an all-Canadian route.

This splicing work was very extensive as there were twenty-three cables, containing a total of 15,000 pairs of wires. The splicers worked day and night in the cable vault, and the job, for about eight months, was done with practically no interference to the service.

Now the new system is working, the lines leading to the cable vault, leaving only the new paths to the automatic apparatus.

METCHOSIN

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held at the hall on Wednesday, November 5 at 2:30 p.m. General business will be attended to and Mrs. McVicker, delegate to the Islands District Conference, will give her report of the conference.
